Some Will Be Working Despite Holiday Break

By SAM THORSON
Star Staff Writer

While most Lincolniters take time out from work to worship, eat turkey, open presents, go caroling, and warm their bloodstreams with rum and egg-nog this Christmas, a good number will remain hard at work.

Many people whose work is related to communications, transportation, travel, news, utilities, crime and fire protection and institutional care, will remain on the job due to the continuing nature of their work. Many will work Christmas Eve as well.

Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph will employ its regular staff and beef up its "traffic" department (telephone operators) to handle holiday calls.

'Skeleton' Crews

Most employees of the gas, water and electric utilities will be given vacations, but these organizations will maintain "skeleton" - size crews to handle technical problems and emergencies.

Transportation facilities, including buses, trains and airlines, will run at full strength; taxi service will be available, but bus service within Lincoln (Lincoln City Lines and the Mini-Line) will be discontinued for the holiday.

Burlington Railroads will maintain a holiday staff of more than 200 workers at its yard, diesel shop and in train and engine crews.

Plants To Close

Most industrial plants will close down sometime the day of Christmas Eve, including Goodyear, Lincoln Steel, Gooch Foods and Milling and the concrete companies.

A very small number of service stations and a handful of restaurants will remain open, but the great majority will close the afternoon of Christmas Eve. Hotels, motels, motor and trailer courts will operate as usual, many with reduced staff.

A full staff of some 75 firemen will be on call to prevent fires notwithstanding the holiday. The police will operate at full strength, according to Chief Joe Carroll, but will give some 65% of its officers vacations for Christmas, fleshing out the remainder of the force with Jewish volunteers.

Hospitals, Nursing Homes

The staffs of the four Lincoln hospitals will work at nearly full strength, as will the staffs of funeral homes and nursing homes, the Vets' Hospital, the State Hospital, the State Penal Complex, the sheriff's office and the State Patrol.

And, as always, Lincoln newspapers will have employees on duty in news, circulation and mechanical departments.

In all, perhaps as many as 5% of Lincoln's labor force will be working Christmas Day.

East German Proposal Unacceptable To Bonn

©The New York Times

Bonn — Conrad Ahlers, chief spokesman for Chancellor Willy Brandt, said Tuesday evening that Communist East Germany's draft treaty proposal for relations with West Germany was, as a whole, unacceptable.

Asked in an interview whether the draft submitted last Thursday by Walter Ulbricht, the East German Communist leader, contained provisions for full-scale international recognition of the East Berlin government by Bonn, Ahlers replied:

"I regard that as absolutely certain and therefore this treaty will not be concluded."

However, Ahlers, whose statements reflect official West German policy, went on to say that the question remained open whether East Germany was "ready to negotiate over something besides this treaty — whether it be a different treaty text, a treaty with different contents or, as we have experienced in the last few years, technical regulations in various areas without consideration of the treaty problem."

(It was reported from Berlin that East Germany insisted Tuesday that its draft treaty calling for full diplomatic ties between the two Germanys represented "the minimum indispensable requirement" for future peaceful relations.)

Ahlers, interviewed by a West Berlin radio station, said the Bonn government saw, in the letter sent by Ulbricht to President Gustav Heinemann with the draft treaty, a "certain possibility" of talks with East Germany.

He also repeated Bonn's willingness to negotiate pacts with the East Berlin government that would "have the effect of international treaties without extending international recognition" to the Ulbricht government.

"There are lots of internationally effective treaties in this world which were signed between partners who did not or have not recognized each other," he said.

RECESSION COMING?

Economists Disagreeing

. . . SLOWDOWN DUE

New York (AP) — The consensus among leading economists — with a few dissenting voices — is that there will be a pronounced slowdown in the economy in 1970 without a major recession.

"By narrow odds I'd say we're not going to have a recession in 1970," said Walter Heller, University of Minnesota economist and chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under President Kennedy.

'Pause In An Uptrend'

"But more importantly," Heller added, "I'd say there is going to be a pronounced slowdown . . . this will not be a prolonged or protracted lack, but rather a pause in an uptrend."

In the language of economics the usual definition of "recession," as distinct from "slowdown," is a decline in the gross national product for two successive quarters.

Paul Samuelson of Massachusetts Institute of Technology said: "The odds are 60-40 against recession."

"I think 1970 will be another year of slow growth," he said. "Plant and equipment intentions are strong, the tax surcharge will come off in the middle of the year and Social Security benefits will be up . . . These factors will work against a recession."

Much Hardship Not Seen

William Freund of the New York Stock Exchange said, "I think we will see very slow growth — or perhaps no growth at all — but I do not believe any widespread hardship will occur."

Said Pierre A. Rinfret, an adviser to President Nixon during the 1968 campaign: "There ain't gonna be no recession in 1970. Period! Not only will there be no recession but I think we will smash every economic record that has been established in the history of the world."

There are, to be sure, voices of gloom. Leif Olsen, First National City Bank of New York economist, said: "There will be a recession in 1970. The monetary restraints we have been experiencing are some of the most severe we've ever had . . . such restraints in the past have without exception produced recessions."

Friedman Agrees

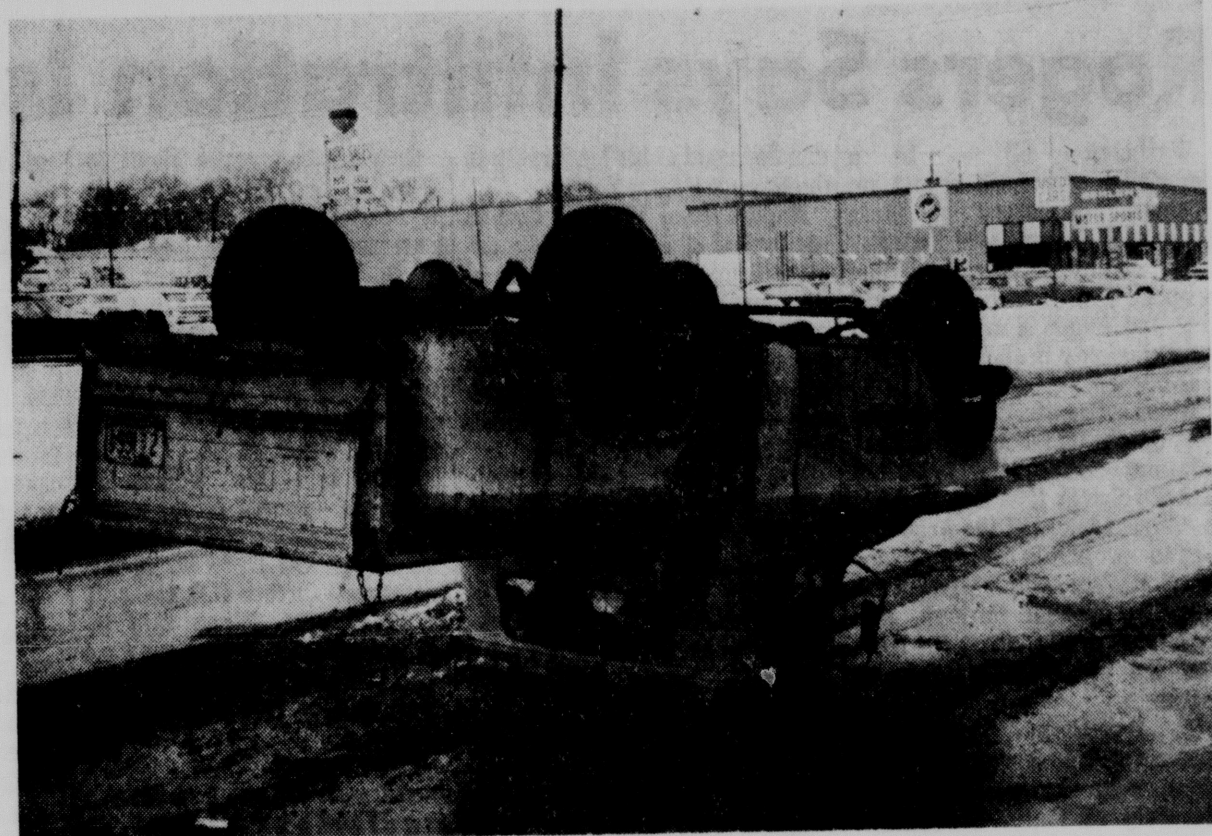

Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago agreed. "We are heading for a recession at least as sharp as that in 1960-61," Friedman has been quoted as saying. "There is more than a 90% chance of that."

Economists more readily agree with one another that inflation will continue to be a problem in 1970, although its rate will slacken.

Most economists agree that the rate of unemployment will go up next year. Their projections, of course, depend on their assessment of the slowdown's severity.

Olsen believes the unemployment rate will climb to "at least 6%." It now is 3.4% of the labor force. Most other economists, however, see the rate as being more in the neighborhood of 4 to 5%.

Most economists say that if the battle against inflation is to be won, a slowdown must occur. If that is the case who will be hurt the most? The answer seems to be those who can stand it the least: the poor.

DRIVER SWERVES TO AVOID COLLISION

The driver of this pickup truck swerved to avoid a collision near 48th and Y Sts. and hit a curb causing his vehicle to upset. According to police, an unidentified motorist cut into the left traffic lane in front of the southbound truck driven by Kenneth Young, 18, of 5740 Colby. Young escaped without injury.

Congress Goes Home; Recall Seems Unlikely

Washington (AP) — Congress adjourned its 1969 session Tuesday, with recall and veto warnings apparently overridden by a Merry Christmas farewell from President Nixon.

The Republican President, who had complained periodically of the congressional pace and product, went to Capitol Hill for a getaway-day luncheon with Democratic and GOP leaders of House and Senate. And at midafternoon, Congress quit until Jan. 19.

There was little work to be done on the closing day of the longest session in six years, and both houses spent much of their time in recess.

Final Bill Sent In

They sent to the White House one final bill, continuing presidential authority to rule on items of trade with Communist nations, but seeking to push the government toward a more liberal policy.

The compromise measure provides for a Commerce Department review of the list of trade items which can be exported to the Communist world only under special license.

Without that measure, the export control program would have expired with the year, and more restrictive trade bars might have been the result.

Leaders Thanked

While Nixon spent more than an hour at lunch in the speaker's dining room of the House, Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., the majority and minority leader, joined House leaders there. Mansfield said they talked no substantive business, but Nixon thanked the leadership for cooperation during the congressional year.

That tone of harmony did not always exist; the President at one point warned he would call a post-Christmas special session if Congress did not enact all appropriations bills before adjourning.

It did not. The $1.8 billion foreign aid bill died in a dispute between House and Senate, and awaits action next month.

A $19.7 billion appropriation which boosts beyond the Nixon budget federal spending for health and education programs was withheld by the Senate, lest it face a recess veto.

That measure is to be the first order of business when the Senate goes back to work.

Nixon's visit to Capitol Hill did not deter a traditionalist Congress from telephoning him to report it was about to quit.

Mansfield and Scott placed the Senate call. Scott said Nixon replied he hoped members of Congress will have a happy holiday and return to work refreshed.

'Merry Christmas'

Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, the House Democratic leader, reported on the call from the House side:

"The President wished all members a very merry Christmas."

Mansfield said Congress had written a responsible, respectable record in 1969.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., the House minority leader, sounded anew a critical GOP theme, calling it a "do-little, mark-time Congress."

Mansfield said when Congress returns, it will be to deal first with appropriations for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the Labor Department; and shortly thereafter with legislation to combat organized crime. Crime control measures rate high on the administration priority list.

Miracles Attributed To St. Nicholas

By OLGA SHARP STEELE

Fact blends with fiction in the legends of Saint Nicholas: Nicholas of Patara — Santa Claus. He lived. Miracles were attributed to him. He died. He lives on in the hearts of children who see in his white beard and red robe a great generosity, a miracle of spirit.

Nicholas was the patron of children, sailors, travelers, virgins, captives, and poets. Twice Nicholas is said to have rescued prisoners unjustly accused, once by appearing in dreams to the Prefect Abavius and the Emperor Constantine.

Some terrified sailors calling on God and Saint Nicholas swore that the Saint took the helm and the fierce tempest turned gentle.

A distraught mother who had left her baby in a tin bathtub over a faggot fire begged Nicholas's aid. She found the baby playing in lukewarm water.

The bathtub legend is perpetuated by sculpture and painting of three children in a tub. Some people say the three figures in the tub are neophytes being baptized. Others claim the figures illustrate the legend of three students.

Student Tale Told

Students often passed through Myra en route to universities in Tarsus and Alexandria. Three such students took rooms at the Myra hostel. They disappeared.

Nicholas went to the hostel. "Three young men had lodging here," he said. "Where are they?"

"How should I know?" muttered the innkeeper. "I have been picking meat. Famine has iron hold in Myra."

"I know," said Nicholas, "and 20 bishops are coming soon. May I see your accommodations?"

The innkeeper consented. Nicholas had beds stripped and hunk mattresses emptied. He went to the cellar.

"You have grain and meat?" he asked.

"Yes, yes," answered the innkeeper. "See those barrels. But I'm a poor man. The bishops must pay. And the three students, will you take responsibility?"

Knelt To Pray

That, of course, was what Nicholas was doing. He was searching for the youths. Sorowfully Nicholas knelt to pray.

As his first words swelled through the cellar, one of the barrels erupted. Arms, legs, and torsos miraculously assorted themselves into the three youths. The youths grappled with the innkeeper.

Nicholas, apparently oblivious to the happenings, chanted, "Forgive us our transgressions."

"Forgive us." Youth and innkeeper fell to their knees beside Nicholas.

It is said that the innkeeper and the youths became devout Christians.

Ships Arrive

Another story is told of the famine years. One day a runner burst into the church crying,

"Seven ships from Alexandria are coming."

Nicholas hurried to the dock. All the town was there.

The ships docked, but there was no unloading.

Nicholas made a horn of his hands. "We need grain."

"So does Rome," called back the ships' captain.

"No fresh water for you then," cried the governor.

"Not so, Cyrus," answered Nicholas. "I grieve over the gruel with which you are starving off hunger. But we cannot wish misfortune on others."

The captain looked from Nicholas to the townspeople, to the pinched cheeks of the children. He ordered some grain unloaded.

In Rome when the ships' holds were opened, they were spilling over with grain.

Traveled Widely

Nicholas traveled throughout Asia Minor and into Europe. The high miter set off his snowy beard and eyebrows. Children pressed against his red bishop's cloak and were comforted with more than candy. Everywhere he passed, people seemed to become happier in spirit and nobler in character.

There is no record that Nicholas traveled to the North Pole nor that he practiced gift giving via chimney. But there is no geographical limitation to love, mercy, humility, and giving of self.

Nicholas died December 6, 342 (3). In western Europe that date, St. Nicholas Day, is for gift giving to "good" children.

Federal Offices To Close Friday

The Post Office and all federal administrative offices will be closed Friday, L. G. Moore, assistant postmaster at Lincoln, said Tuesday.

President Nixon issued an executive order designating Friday an official holiday to permit federal workers to have a four-day weekend.

Moore said the word on the extra "executive holiday" came by telephone from Washington Tuesday afternoon.

Regular holiday postal service will continue Friday the same as on Christmas Day, Moore said. That includes special deliveries, mail service for postal box patrons and reduced pickup from mailboxes.

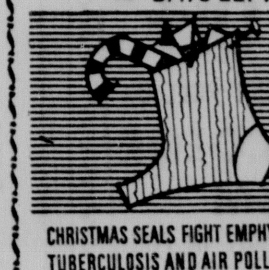

The post office will resume its regular service Saturday, he said, but most other federal employees won't be back to work until Monday.

State and local governmental offices will be open for business-as-usual on Friday.

Soviet Reply Not Constructive

Washington — The Soviet Union responded to the latest American proposal for settling the Middle East crisis and State Department officials said the response did not appear to be constructive. The proposals form the basis of Secretary of State Rogers' "balanced" policy to break the Arab-Israeli deadlock. The response came only a few hours after Rogers publicly defended his policy against Arab and Israeli criticisms.

Soviet Manifesto Issued

Moscow — A 13,000-word declaration that criticizes all non-Soviet forms of communism and stresses the desire of the Soviet Union to avoid extreme positions in both foreign and domestic policies was officially issued by the central committee of the Communist Party to mark the 100th anniversary of Lenin's birth. The paper is intended to consolidate all recent declarations into one manifesto of Soviet views. (More on Page 2.)

Parole Procedures Tightened

Washington — The Justice Department announced it was revising its parole procedures in an effort to combat urban crime by making paroles more difficult to obtain. The announcement of the changes cited a "skyrocketing" of paroles and parole violations in recent years and said that the problem could be eased by lessening the number of paroles granted. (More on Page 11.)

Rogers Says Infiltration Is Down

Washington (AP) — In a guardedly optimistic report on Vietnam, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Tuesday that enemy infiltration has dropped 60% below last year's rate and Saigon is moving ahead encouragingly in shouldering the war burden.

Rogers also strongly defended U.S. proposals for a Middle East solution, specifically rejecting Israel's charge that they amount to "appeasement of the Arabs."

"Our proposals we think are fair," Rogers said. "They are carefully thought through, and we have offered them in the hope that the parties will begin to negotiate."

He spoke at a year-end meeting with newsmen and, not surprisingly for a Republican secretary of state, found that during the new administration's first 11 months "the President can be proud of his leadership in the foreign affairs field."

Rogers listed Vietnam first in his recital of foreign policy accomplishments. He said "one of the most dramatic changes" has been a drop in foreign government criticism of U.S. Vietnam policy since President Nixon took office with his troop pullout program.

He also said "Vietnamization" the effort to get South Vietnam to carry more of the war load, is showing encouraging results, including in the important IV Corps Mekong Delta area from where American troops have been withdrawn.

Young South Vietnamese officers in particular are enthusiastic about stepping up Saigon's role and "we have reason to be cautiously optimistic," he said.

Rogers's comments about infiltration marked another turn in up-and-down administration statements on the influx of North Vietnamese forces into the South.

One Item Weighed
Infiltration is one of the items weighed by the administration in deciding how fast to proceed with U.S. withdrawals.

Nixon said Dec. 8 that intelligence reports of a recent infiltration increase had proved "inflated." On Dec. 15, in announcing a further U.S. pullback of 50,000 men, Nixon said infiltration had increased "substantially" and he warned of a possible major enemy offensive.

The secretary of state's newest account was that after a significant increase in November, infiltration for the last three weeks has tapered off again. He declined to predict whether this means the enemy is or is not about to launch another big push.

The U.S. proposals for a Middle East settlement have been rebuffed by Arabs and are now a sore point with the Israelis too. Basically, the U.S. blueprint envisions a solution in which Israel would give up the lands conquered in the June 1967 war in return for the increased security of her frontiers.

Fair And Proper
Rogers defended the U.S. proposals as fair, comprehensive and a proper U.S. initiative under the United Nations Security Council resolution aimed at working out a Middle East peace.

On Israel's cabinet statement Monday rejecting the U.S. proposals as "appeasement," Rogers said appeasement was "an unfortunate word."

"It suggests that the Arabs are enemies of the United States and somehow we are appeasing them," he said. "That isn't true."

The U.S. foreign affairs chief said "we are very encouraged by the results" of the preliminary round of U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks just concluded in Helsinki. The next, fullscale negotiating round is slated to start in Vienna in April.

Village Christmas Pageant Bombed By VC; Two Killed

Saigon (AP) — A Viet Cong terrorist bomb exploded in the midst of a village crowd watching a Christmas pageant staged by a government propaganda team Tuesday night, fatally injuring two persons and wounding 53 others.

The blast occurred in the northern village of Xuyen Kieu, 16 miles south of Da Nang, about 2½ hours before the Communist command's declared 72-hour truce went into effect.

A spate of other terror incidents occurred in the Saigon area in the hours just prior to the beginning of the Communists' unilaterally declared truce period at 1 a.m., killing one civilian and wounding four others, government military headquarters said.

Spokesmen said police also "detected and foiled" an attempt by Viet Cong saboteurs to dynamite a bridge spanning a canal in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese sector.

In one of the other incidents, spokesmen said, a pedicab carrying two persons ran over an explosive package in Cholon and the driver was wounded. Police captured two suspects and a Viet Cong flag, they reported.

The U.S. command said that in the first eight hours of the Communist cease-fire period, one shelling of an American military installation was reported, but no further details were available.

The allied commands are officially ignoring the enemy's declared cease-fire, as they have in the past, but say they will halt combat operations for a 24-hour period to begin at 6 p.m. Saigon time Christmas Eve.

The blast in Xuyen Kieu occurred as the villagers were gathered in the main square to watch the play being put on by a government psychological warfare team. The teams are part of the Saigon government's pacification program, and many of their black panama-clad members are former Viet Cong who have joined the government side.

Kremlin Rules Out War With Imperialism

Moscow (UPI) — The Kremlin Tuesday ruled out war with "modern imperialism" and stressed the advantages of peaceful coexistence for the Communist world in a major policy document setting the theme for Soviet founder V. I. Lenin's 100th birthday celebrations.

The 13,000-word document published by the Soviet Communist Party's central committee emphasized, however, that the struggle against capitalism would continue and singled out the United States and West Germany as the principal foes.

"The most aggressive detachments of modern imperialism, particularly in the United States and in the Federal Republic of (West) Germany have not abandoned hope of refighting the historical battles of the 20th century," the document said.

It said Soviet foreign policy aims at establishing peaceful relations with the capitalist world "to ensure peaceful conditions for the construction of socialism and communism."

But, it added:

"Peaceful coexistence presupposes sharp political, economic and ideological struggle between socialism and capitalism, between the working class and the bourgeoisie."

The document was published in all major Soviet newspapers and comprised the guidelines for all discussions connected with the Lenin centennial celebrations next April. It restated well-established party positions.

The document also: —Condemned the "cult of the personality" of the late Josef Stalin. It said, however, that criticism of the Soviet dictator must not be used "for the purpose of slurring the history of socialist construction, discrediting revolutionary achievements, revising the principles of Marxism-Leninism."

—Declared that peaceful coexistence "does not put in the least doubt the sacred right of oppressed peoples to exploit every means for their liberation, up to and including armed struggle."

McDonnell Douglas Chosen To Develop New F15 Fighter

Washington (AP) — The Air Force chose the McDonnell Douglas Corp. of St. Louis Tuesday to develop and produce the F15, a new jet fighter designed to give the United States air supremacy over the battlefield.

The Pentagon has said the eventual cost of the project could total $7.7 billion.

McDonnell Douglas won out over two other competing firms,

Fairchild Hiller Corp. of Farmingdale, N.Y., and North American Rockwell Corp. of Los Angeles.

The F15 is designed to give the Air Force a fighter which can counter Russia's most advanced air-to-air warplane, the MIG 23 Foxbat.

The first flight of the F15 is expected in 1972 and the 2,000-mile-an-hour plane should become operational in the mid-1970s, the Air Force has said.

Dodd Escapes Income Tax Prosecution

Washington (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, censured by the Senate in 1967 for misuse of campaign funds, said Tuesday the Justice Department has found no basis for prosecuting him for tax evasion.

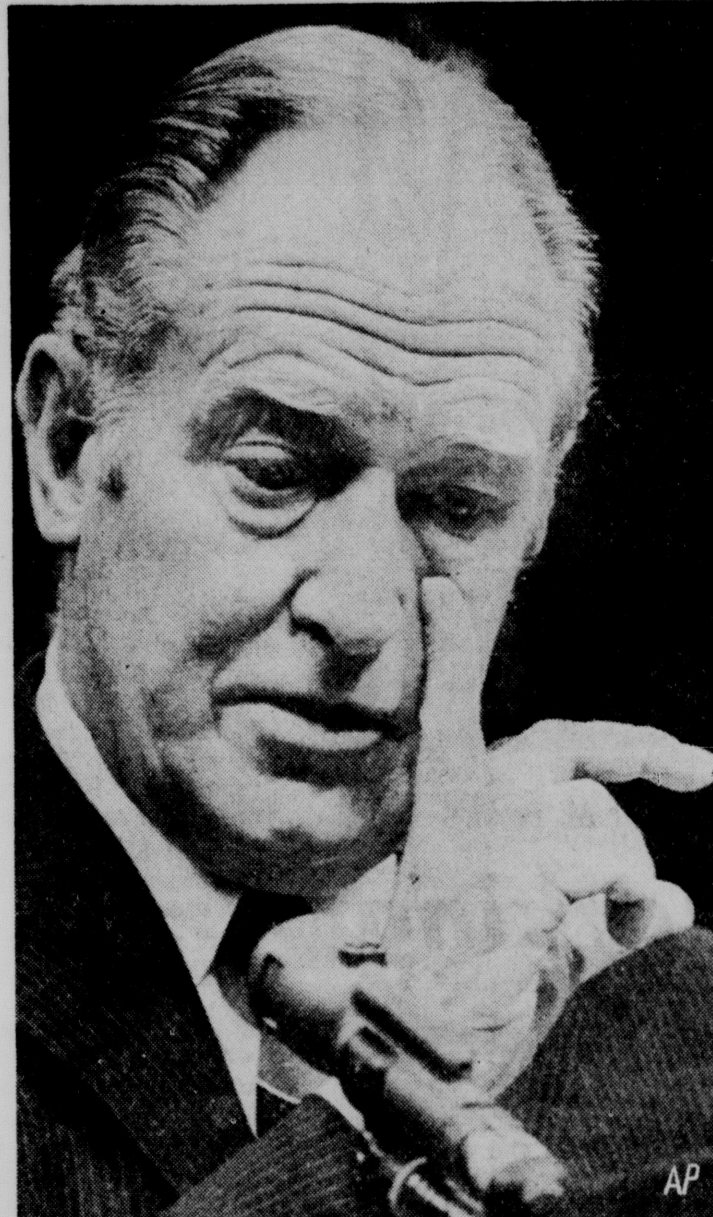

"I have been subjected for more than two years to exhaustive and intensive investigation," said the white-haired Connecticut Democrat. "I feel at last I have been cleared of any wrongdoing."

Dodd and his lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, made public a letter from Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell saying the Justice Department's tax and criminal divisions had concluded that "no criminal prosecution is warranted."

The senator's income tax returns had been under investigation since the Senate, in June of 1967, censured him.

Although Dodd said he felt no guilt in his heart, the Senate upheld a finding of its ethics committee that he had converted to his personal benefit at least $116,083 in campaign and testimonial funds.

U.S. To Leave Libya

Damascus, Syria (AP) — The United States agreed Tuesday night to withdraw its forces and close down the huge Wheelus Air Force Base in Libya by next June 30, Tripoli radio reported.

It said the agreement was signed by the two countries at the third and last session of negotiations in Tripoli on Libya's demand for an early and unconditional American evacuation.

Under the agreement signed at the Tripoli town hall, the two governments pledged to extend all necessary facilities to "guarantee an orderly and honorable evacuation," the radio said.

The evacuation would be carried out by stages and completed by the end of June.

The negotiations began Dec. 15. The American side was headed by Ambassador Joseph Palmer and the Libyan side by Capt. Abdulsalam Jalloud, a leading member of the National Revolutionary Council that deposed pro-Western King Idris last Sept. 1.

The agreement was played up by the radio as the second major victory for the regime of this moderately leftist Libyan strongman, Col. Moammar Kaddafi.

Britain earlier this month agreed to dismantle its army base at the Libyan Mediterranean port of Tobruk and the air force base at El Adem by the end of next March.

The Americans had served notice that evacuation of Wheelus has been under way since Dec. 12.

Arab Conference Ends In Disarray

Rabat, Morocco (AP) — An Arab summit conference closed in disarray late Tuesday night after quarrels over joint efforts to step up war measures against Israel. The delegates parted without drafting a final communiqué.

Revolutionary Arab leaders protested in the closing hours of the three-day meeting over what they said was the majority's lukewarm attitude toward the struggle against Israel.

Morocco's King Hassan II, speaking in a strained, tired voice, declared the conference ended at a brief open session after backstage wrangling among the leaders.

Not In The Know
Conference officials said they did not know whether the kings and presidents of the Arab world agreed on any new joint measure in the fight against Israel.

The entire delegation of Syria, Iraq and South Yemen boycotted the formal closing session. The Yemen Republic's president, Abdurrahmane Iryani, also was absent.

Hassan and President Charles Helou of Lebanon, who had played a backstage role in the quarrels of two previous days, were the only speakers at the final meeting.

Egged On By Nasser
President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt apparently encouraged the protests of the revolutionaries but took no action to walk out of the conference.

Conference officials said the debate in the closely guarded conference room was "stormy" at times.

One significant development was that Algeria's President Houari Boumediene consistently lined up with the moderates instead of with the "revolutionary camp" to which he once belonged.

Conference sources said he told Nasser at one point he was willing to deliver a large part of Algeria's Soviet-made military equipment to the war front.

Boumediene declined, however, to contribute large sums from Algeria's oil income to Egypt and other countries directly involved in the Middle East conflict. He said Algeria needed all its resources for its own economic development.

Conference sources said Nasser clashed repeatedly in Tuesday's two sessions with Boumediene and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia over Nasser's demand for more funds.

The sources said Faisal at one time challenged Nasser to produce an accounting of the money provided to Egypt since the 1967 war by Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

Nasser abruptly ended the morning meeting following an exchange with Faisal, but conference officials stressed that he never at any time walked out of the meeting.

The sources said the revolutionary leaders — Nasser included — demanded a substantial increase in the funds made available thus far by the oil-rich nations, including Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Algeria.

College Name, Degrees Change But Training Goals Are Same

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Hastings — It sports a new name, a rapidly expanding enrollment and a couple of additional degrees. But in concept, Central Nebraska Tech is strictly status quo.
In other words, the pioneering facility has precisely the same goals as when it opened three years ago as "Area Vocational Technical School No. 1." All program is geared to vocational and technical training.
"The change of title will not alter our basic purpose, though it does imply a different status," said Dr. Chester Gausman, whose own title was switched from superintendent to president.

"Actually we've operated as a college since the day of our opening. More than 97% of our students had completed high school before enrolling," he said.
Transfer Credits
The new official designation — Central Nebraska Technical College — derived from the 1969 Legislature. More than adding prestige, the title also means that the institution's credits can now be transferred.

Students have the choice of working toward terminal one or two-year diplomas or, for transfer, on Associate of Science degrees. Certificates of completion also are offered in 41 different areas.
Most popular among the 808 full-time students are automotive, electronics and data processing courses. Not far behind is a field that Dr. Gausman terms "one of our least known but one of our greatest potentialities — agricultural technology."

Forty-eight enrollees are currently being prepared for farm-related sales, managerial and horticultural positions. Job possibilities range from golf greenskeeping to grain elevator operation to grass research.
Combining classroom training with recreational needs, the college has begun development of a nine-hole golf course. The project is partially an experiment with different turfs — just as several small plantings are with milo and soybeans.
"We could triple our enrollment in ag courses and still not meet the demands for graduates in this region," said Harold Hughes, who heads the agricultural technology department.

The college's latest remodeling project has transformed a 50 by 200-foot warehouse into the department's "Webster Laboratory." One of 29 buildings acquired through the closing of the Hastings Naval Ammunition Depot, the lab takes its name from one of the 19 counties comprising the college district.
Two counties have been added since the district was created by a formal area vote in May, 1966. Classes began the next fall with 192 students and 11 courses of study.

Also noteworthy this term — and more than welcomed by a predominantly male enrollment — is a big boost in coeds. Numbering 142 as compared with a first-year enrollment of seven, the girls are attracted to such courses as dental and food service technology.

Health Chief Sought New Job A Month Ago

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Nebraska's departing health director, Dr. Arnold Reeve, began talking with Iowa officials nearly a month ago about the top job post in that state, Iowa Gov. Robert D. Ray said Tuesday.
Dr. Reeve made no mention of the Iowa job when he announced at a noon news conference Monday that he was resigning as Nebraska health director after a stint of just three months.

Dr. Reeve said he was leaving Nebraska because of "major personal problems" and told newsmen "I have no plans at this time."
Less than two hours later it was disclosed that Gov. Ray had chosen Dr. Reeve as Iowa's new public health commissioner at a salary of $30,000 a year, the same as Dr. Reeve was paid in Nebraska.

Asked later why he did not mention the Iowa job at Monday's news conference, Dr. Reeve said he was not certain that he was definitely Gov. Ray's choice.
He said the personal problems would have forced him to leave Nebraska in any event and the availability of the Iowa job "was a secondary thing."

Gov. Ray said in Des Moines Tuesday that the state began negotiating with Dr. Reeve "roughly three to four weeks ago."
Dr. Reeve, 51, will succeed Dr. James Speers as Iowa public health commissioner. Dr. Speers is to become health director for Omaha Douglas County early next year.

Prior to his coming to Nebraska last Oct. 1, Dr. Reeve served as chief of preventive medical services in the Iowa Department of Health.
He never did sell his home in Des Moines. Mrs. Reeve, contacted at the Des Moines home, referred all questions to her husband.

"You didn't call me when he was moving to Nebraska," she said. "Why are you calling me now that he's moving back?"
Gov. Ray also said there was the possibility Reeve might start the Iowa job at a salary of $33,000.
Ray agreed that the salary ceiling on the Iowa public health commissioner job was $23,000, but he said, "We may start him as acting commissioner. That goes to $33,000 a year."

Oldest Nebraska Resident, Mrs. Aldrich, 109, Dies

The woman believed to be Nebraska's oldest resident, Mrs. Martha Aldrich, 109, of Brock, died Tuesday. She would have celebrated her 110th birthday anniversary on Jan. 28.
Mrs. Aldrich was the oldest ex-coed of Peru State College, and was the oldest member of both the W.C.T.U. and the Methodist Church in Nebraska.

She was also the oldest active member of the Order of the Eastern Star in the U.S.
Born in Indiana, Mrs. Aldrich came to Nebraska when her father, J. M. Campbell, opened the Brock General Store in 1871.
She is survived by a son, Campbell Aldrich of Brock; one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Dougherty of Brock; seven grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.
Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Friday in the Brock Methodist Church.
The body will lie in state at the Casey Funeral Home in Auburn until time of services.

Omaha Grand Jury Indicts Three On Several Counterfeit Charges

Omaha (UPI) — A federal grand jury has indicted three Nebraskan on counterfeit charges, according to Richard A. Roth, special agent in charge of the Secret Service office here.
Indicted on a 12-count charge was Arthur Strand of Ainsworth. He was accused of possessing and transferring approximately $17,000 in 10 and 20-dollar counterfeit notes between January of 1968 and April of 1969.

Strand was arrested in Ainsworth Monday and is being held in lieu of $40,000 bond in Omaha.

Larry McConnell of Ainsworth was charged with receiving and possessing about $800 worth of counterfeit 10-dollar notes and with passing one counterfeit note.

He was arrested Monday at Purdum, appeared before a U.S. commissioner in Valentine, posted $10,000 bond and was released.
Arrested in Neligh was Marvin D. Lucht. He was listed on a four-count indictment, charging possession and receiving of approximately $3,500 in counterfeit 20-dollar notes. He is being held in lieu of $10,000 bond at Omaha.

The Secret Service, State Patrol and Brown County Sheriff D. W. Davis of Ainsworth participated in the investigation.

Strand is 31, McConnell, 23, and Lucht, 26.

Roth said Strand is accused of buying approximately $20,000 in counterfeit 20-dollar bills in the Los Angeles, Calif., area. He is charged with taking the bogus bills to the Ainsworth area and with selling some of them to Lucht and others.

Later, Roth said, Strand obtained $1,000 in bogus 10-dollar bills and sold them to McConnell and others.

Toy Renovation Completed By Sidney Vocational Class

Sidney (P) — Charles Everitt heaved a sigh of relief and admitted he's glad the job is done.
The job was the renovation of about 500 toys by 50 vocational training students at Sidney High School. Everitt is shop instructor.

The youngsters have worked alternately three evenings a week for the past month.

Some of the toys have been sent to the Cheyenne County welfare office, some to the Nebraska State Hospital for the Mentally Retarded in Beatrice and some to St. Joseph's Orphanage in Torrington, Wyo.

Everitt said, "Doing something like this to make others happy has worked in reverse. These kids have learned self-respect by their hours of effort for others."

Cheyenne County Pay Raises Ok'd

Hole Snags Burglar In Omaha

Omaha (UPI) — Loyd C. Grandsinger, who once spent more than three years on death row in connection with the slaying of a state patrolman, was found early Tuesday in a hole in a roof at the scene of a burglary investigation, police said.
Those investigating said they found Grandsinger, 37, and two other suspects about 2:40 a.m. inside Caniglia's Pizzeria and Steakhouse.

Held for suspicion of burglary were Grandsinger, his brother, Leon, 48, both of Omaha, and Jimmy D. Langley, 24, of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

A citizen called police to the restaurant.
Patrolman said Leon Grandsinger and Langley were inside the building but that Loyd was stuck in a hole in the roof and had to be yanked free.

On June 16, 1954, a Cherry County District Court jury sentenced Loyd Grandsinger to death for the April 8, 1954, slaying of Trooper Marvin Hansen near Valentine.

Loyd and Leon were in a vehicle stopped at a roadblock. Leon halted, officers said, but Loyd fled and was not captured until about 16 hours later.

In 1957 a federal judge ruled Grandsinger had been denied effective counsel at his original trial and a new trial was ordered. He was acquitted by a Sheridan County District Court jury in 1958.

Egg Production Up Two Million Over Last Year

Egg production in Nebraska during November exceeded the same month last year by two million eggs, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Tuesday.

November production totaled 82 million eggs while the 5,037,000 layers on hand represent a slight decrease from November, 1968, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said.

The 1,629 eggs laid per hundred hens was up three per cent from a year previous, the report said.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Without intending any criticism of his remarks, we would like to suggest one more thing to Hess Dyas, new state chairman of the Democratic party. Dyas has spoken, from his position as the paid head of the party, of his determination to rebuild the party through broad-based support, good organization and financial backing.

We have no argument with that. Indeed, the Democratic party needs rebuilding in Nebraska, at least as bad as it does nationally. The parties nationally, both of them, seem to find the powers of rejuvenation when the chips are really down but as much cannot be said about Democrats in Nebraska.

It is a party which has been in a constant minority position, finding satisfaction in an occasional and isolated victory here or there. It needs broadening, organization and finances. But, it needs, too, a philosophical base on which to campaign.

What does the Democratic party of Nebraska stand for? What does the Republican party stand for? In the case of the GOP, it depends upon whom you look at. Look at Gov. Norbert Tiemann and the party has a relatively progressive attitude.

Look at Nebraska's congressional delegation and the Republican party belongs to the Stone Age. Recently, we referred to votes by Senators Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska on the income tax reform bill — votes that favored special interest monied groups and opposed the average taxpayer.

The two senators have added another mark to their long record of loyalty to the privileged few. The Senate recently passed an amendment to an appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

The amendment cancelled out, in effect, a House action which would have stopped the federal government from pressing for school desegregation in the South by threatening the withholding of federal aid. Both Curtis and Hruska voted against the amendment and for the principle of segregation in schools.

And what about the House? In the last seven roll-call votes recorded by Congressional Quarterly, Rep. Glenn Cunningham of Omaha does not have one, not one, record roll-call vote.

He is recorded three times as "paired for" an issue, one time "paired against" and three times as "absent, general pair, 'present' or did not announce or answer poll." All three of these categories are strong indications that Cunningham simply was not around to assume his responsibility of voting.

In the one "paired against" vote, he is joined by his three colleagues. Thus, whether there or not, all three were against the issue being voted on. The issue, according to CQ, was "passage of the bill to lower interest rates and to fight inflation, to help housing, small business and employment."

In another roll-call vote, all three, Cunningham, Denney and Martin, voted for the administration voting rights bill. That is the bill considered to be a sop to the South and a blow to the cause of full civil rights.

When you examine these votes of Nebraska's congressional delegation, there is the common thread of loyalty to the entrenched political, social and economic power structure in the nation.

These are not votes for the common man or even the average or middle-income man. They are not votes to help solve any of the problems the nation faces, but rather, to ignore the problems in the belief, perhaps, that they will go away or, more likely, with the philosophical conviction that such are not the responsibilities of government.

The philosophy of the Republican party in Nebraska as seen through the eyes of its congressional delegation is hidebound, is narrow-minded, is impractical, is unrealistic and without compassion.

There is where an opportunity exists for the Democratic party — to face up to the inhumanities that exist in the nation, to meet injustice head-on and to tackle the insidious inequities that rob people of their dignity.

Surely, the people of Nebraska are not as stoically indifferent to their fellow men as their congressional delegation consistently votes. But until they understand the distinction and where it is drawn, their voting habits will not change. Somebody has to give them this understanding. Will the Democratic party do that?

Hickel Promises More Park Areas

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel, who was roughed up by the Senate Interior Committee during his confirmation hearings, invited his tormentors to his offices the other day for a Christmas luncheon.

He gave each guest a book in Christmas wrappings. On the front cover was Hickel's portrait and the title: "How to Get a Job in Government Without Really Trying" or "How to Write a 450-Page Book in Five Days." Between the covers was the printed record of the stormy Hickel hearings.

"I consider this a valuable gift," chuckled Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, "because it indicates that, despite the content of the book, we are fast friends."

The gruffly amiable secretary told his luncheon guests that he hoped to combine all federal functions, having to do with the environment, into a single new Department of Natural Resources and Environment.

Moss reminded the secretary that he had introduced the same idea as a Senate bill five years ago but that the affected government agencies had resisted the reorganization.

Hickel also complained to the committee about the problem of acquiring land for national parks. The parks are authorized, complete with boundaries, before the money is appropriated to buy the land. Result: the land prices immediately skyrocket.

At the time Point Reyes, Calif., was authorized as a national park, he pointed out, the needed land was worth $14 million. Once the word got out that the government wanted the land, of course, the prices doubled, then doubled again. The taxpayers are now shelling out $38 million for land acquisition at Point Reyes, Hickel said, and the total cost will reach an estimated $57 million.

He suggested that a standing fund should be available so park land could be purchased at the time of its authorization.

Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., said nothing was more important, in his opinion, than parks for outdoor recreation. These should be available near the cities, he said, to offer an outlet for youth gangs.

Hickel agreed there was "great need for more parks in populous areas" and promised to provide more recreation areas easily accessible to the big cities.

Arms Talks Set

It's with some pleasure that we note that the preliminary strategic arms limitation talks have ended with the friendly clinking of champagne glasses and that the Soviet Union and the United States have agreed on a site for full-scale negotiations which will begin in mid-April.

The talks were deadlocked for nearly a week because a site for the permanent talks could not be agreed upon. The U.S. wanted Vienna and the Soviets wanted to continue at Helsinki and would not accept Geneva as an alternative.

Cool heads finally prevailed when the U.S.'s first choice was agreed upon, but only if the talks could shift back to Helsinki at some later date. The April 16 starting date was set because Russian diplomats said they could not be ready before then. U.S. officials had hoped the full-scale talks could start in January or February at the latest.

The permanent negotiations, the results of which are aimed at scaling down the possession of all forms of strategic armaments, are expected to take months, even years. It could be one of the most important deliberations in the history of diplomacy.

Both sides will have to prepare to give up something if the talks are to be more successful than the disarmament conference that has been carried on in Geneva for years.

Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir S. Semenov, head of the Soviet delegation, said he will "strive at the subsequent negotiations toward a mutually acceptable agreement." We hope that pledge is sincere.

Living By The Sword

Arab nations are finding in their current summit conference that living by the sword contains no small amount of risk. One Arab state leader after another has maintained his position by inflaming the masses of people against Israel. A substantial element of this same group further solidifies its hold on office with attacks upon the United States.

But violence has gone so far that Arab leaders can no longer control it. The Arab leader who espouses a moderate line is taking his security into his own hands. The situation has reached the point where the Palestine guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat was brought into the summit conference as an equal with other members.

There is serious doubt that the moderate Arab leaders will succeed in placing much of any limits upon the guerrilla operations. There is heavy pressure to allow the guerrilla forces to operate freely throughout all Arab countries. Thus, the Arab nations do not have a firm hold even on their own foreign affairs.

They cannot control the extent to which their own lands are used as a base of operations against Israel. Beyond that, the most military Arab leaders appear to be occupying center stage at the summit meeting. We may well be on the verge of official Arab policy which includes an all-out war with Israel as the only possible avenue for peace in the Middle East.

In an effort to reverse this violence, the U.S. has proposed a Middle East formula which has strained our relations with Israel but still produced no favorable response from the Arabs. Emotion is a poor but highly contagious substitute for reason but is emerging as the dominant influence in the Middle East.

Year Ending Not Notable For Accomplishments; First Glimmer Of East-West Amity Seen In 1970

WASHINGTON — With the moon walk as a fabulous exception, the red-letter days in 1969 have been few and far between. It has been a bleak year, notable more for what has not happened than for what did.

Yet the modest beginning made in the nuclear arms talks with the Soviet Union could in the long future mark the year now ending as the start of a new era. It could, that is, if the preliminary discussion in Helsinki between the two superpowers provides the base for the kind of tough, month-after-month negotiation essential to an agreement for at least a pause in the arms race.

Before the start of the next phase after the Christmas recess, the President and the National Security Council must come up with critical decisions. The Helsinki talks were preliminary and tentative. In April the American delegation must go back with negotiating positions to put on the table.

Those with access to the highly secret reports of what has transpired thus far believe that it will still be too early to put down anything very specific about the multiple warhead, MIRV, the newest weapon increasing the nuclear kill ratio three to four times. The preliminary phase has not clarified the relative position of the two giants.

But these same sources do not regard this as a serious handicap. They use the analogy of the testing of a new motorcar. The new car may in test runs have been driven 50,000 to 100,000 miles over desert and mountain roads. It does not follow, however, that it will be put in production when these runs have been completed. So long as MIRV is not deployed by either side, the chances for a letup in the race are at least fair.

Along with the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), other signs and portents show at least a crack of light. Secretary of State William P. Rogers returned from the NATO council meeting, including stops in Paris and Bonn, with the feeling that a break in the long East-West stalemate is possible.

The American position in Western Europe is stronger

Quotas, Goals And Tricks

WASHINGTON — "It is as clear as the noonday sun in a cloudless sky," the oft-quoted Sen. Sam J. Ervin has observed, "that these percentages are quotas and that they are based on race." He was talking about the minority group employment in the building trades union that is the goal of the so-called Philadelphia Plan supported by the Nixon administration.

What is really as clear as the noonday sun in a cloudless sky is that the unions involved, Ervin, and those other members of House and Senate who tried to prohibit the Philadelphia Plan were standing fast for one of the most important remaining strongholds of racial discrimination. And no amount of oratorical camouflage about the integrity of the legislative branch vs. the executive branch can hide the more fundamental fact that it is the credibility of the government itself that is most at stake.

With about 1.3 million total members, the construction unions have only about 106,000 black card-holders, or 8.4 per cent. Even that is misleading; actually, of those member blacks, 81,000 are grouped in the Laborers' International Union, of which they make up about 30 per cent.

But among union carpenters, blacks are only 1.6 per cent of the total. That is real participation compared to the plumbers, who allot only two-tenths of one per cent of their cards to blacks; or to the electrical workers, whose black membership is six-tenths of one per cent. Bricklayers are almost integrationists by comparison; 9.6 per cent of their membership is black.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE

Yule Fringe Benefits Of Presidency

NEW YORK — In this atomic age, it has become an American cliché to shake the head piously, proclaim the presidency a "man-killing job," and wonder why any man in his right mind would ever want it.

Well, maybe. But along about this time of year, when families get all frazzled and frustrated over Christmas confusion, I could name you plenty of folks who'd trade places with Mr. Nixon in a minute.

Because, during these last few shopping hours before the big day, he is having it easier in Yuletide affairs than most householders around the country.

Sure, he still has all those world-wide crises on his mind. He still has to deal with the Vietnam mess and the economy crunch and whether he should try to get Mrs. Mitchell to take (These figures, provided by the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission, reflect the situation at the end of 1967; but the percentages have remained about the same.)

The Philadelphia Plan would require bidders on federally assisted projects costing more than $500,000 to institute a program working toward "specific goals" for improving minority employment in the building trades. But the contractor would not be required to reach the goal as a condition of getting the contract, or even necessarily to reach it at all.

Instead, he would be required to agree to make a good-faith effort to reach the goal, and then, in fact, to make the effort. Attorney General Mitchell ruled last summer that this did not set racial employment quotas in violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Comptroller General Elmer Staats has issued a directly contrary ruling that the plan does establish quotas in violation of the act. A House-Senate conference committee approved the addition to a supplemental appropriations bill of a rider that would prohibit any expenditure for any contract the comptroller general holds to be against the law. Late Monday night, both Houses rejected this rider, thus rescuing the Philadelphia Plan, at least for now.

This was a triumph of common sense. To have upheld Staats by such legislation would have tended to conform the comptroller general in a judicial function of dubious deprivation; it would have set a precedent that would encourage him not to make additional interpretations of the law in the future; and — if politics matters any more — it would have put the Democratic Congress in the position of preventing the single most practical and effective step the Nixon administration has tried to take in the whole area of minority opportunities.

It may be true that Mitchell and Secretary of Labor Schultz made a rather clever end-run around the legislative act of 1964 — just as segregationists and other conservatives have worked many a fast shuffle in pursuit of their ends. The unions, their new friend Ervin, and their other strange bed-fellows, were playing it just as tricky in ringing in the comptroller general, with hitherto unrecognized powers of judicial review, and in attaching their rider to a supplemental appropriations bill that President Nixon could not easily veto. All of this is the usual routine of government in a democracy.

The real question was whose political devices would prevail — these racially restrictive unions, or those of government supposedly committed to equal employment opportunities for all its citizens? If the former, not many blacks would have been surprised; it would have been just one more example, to them, of a white social structure that would not or could not keep its word — even when it is spoken by a president.

As it turned out, blacks will get only a marginal economic break (such as a thousand jobs in Philadelphia in the next four years) — but perhaps also some slight evidence that every now and then even the tortuous and tortured America system works in their favor.

PAT NIXON

... none of the usual wifely nagging ...

a Dale Carnegie course.

But look what he got OUT of: Can you for one minute imagine Mrs. Nixon reminding him they really MUST decorate the tree, dear, and would he mind climbing up to the attic for the ornaments and lights and tinsel?

Hardly. That 19-foot fir in the foyer was decorated by a man from Saks Fifth Avenue, no less. Mr. Nixon probably didn't have to do more than register an appreciative "oohh" and "aahh" at the final results.

He didn't have to scramble up a stepladder and struggle with the outside lights, either. There were little White House pixies who did that for him.

The only presidential effort required was a few minutes off from the tax veto problem to flick the switch that turned everything on. (Including a bunch of anti-war Scrooges who boomed when the big tree blazed into a million lights.)

Then there was that little matter of the White House Christmas cards — all 37,000 of them. Most husbands, by Christmas Eve, are suffering what they're positive is a permanent case of postage-stamp tongue from the annual lick-in.

But not the President. Mrs. Nixon is a considerate-type wife who spares her husband these sticky details. She just called in Republican volunteers and they whisked through the job in no time. Neat, huh?

And you can be sure Mr. Nixon didn't have to brave the Christmas crush to do his shopping. Can you imagine the sensation a President would create if he browsed among the furs and jewels and fluffy-ruffles?

Chances are, the stores sent the stuff over and he picked it out from a comfortable chair in his office. This, alone, is enough to turn most men an appropriate Christmas green.

Another headache the President's spared is trying to snag a plane ticket for the annual home-for-the-holiday rush. He doesn't even have to grab a cab. One little phone call, and there's his helicopter, fluttering down on his back lawn to rush him to his private jet, which rushes him to his San Clemente hideaway.

And speaking of phone calls: the Nixons will probably want to call Julie and David, who are spending this Christmas with the Eisenhowers in Belgium. They'll get through, too. There's no such thing as a crowded trunk line when the White House is doing the dialing.

And so it should be, for this special day at least. God rest ye merry, Mr. President.

Changes OK'd In Negotiations

... BY SCHOOL BOARD

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

New negotiation procedures were adopted by the Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday that call for the exchange of requests from both the Lincoln Education Association and the school board at the same meeting this year.

The new procedures also established an explanation meeting of school board and LEA proposals with no audience participation and laid out a timetable for the negotiations.

Supt. John Prasch recommended approval of the change in procedures, pointing out that the LEA had objected to having its requests known by the board before the teachers' association was advised of the board's requests.

Prasch noted that "counterproposals" on the part of the board might be difficult without knowing what the LEA would be requesting. Last year, the board developed counterproposals in response to LEA requests on salaries and working conditions.

'Not Healthy'

Prasch said that board and LEA negotiators had all agreed that last year's meeting for presentation and clarification of the proposals was "not a healthy confrontation."

The clarification meeting is not a time to "argue or defend requests," he said. The new procedure requested by the LEA will allow only the official representatives of each side to speak.

According to the schedule approved, proposals will be exchanged Jan. 12, 1970; clarification of proposals Jan. 20, and identification of items the board will negotiate Jan. 27. Meeting times for the negotiations sessions will be set later.

In other business the board named R. O. Freeman of the architectural firm Hoskins, Stippich, Schaumburg and Freeman as the architect for the proposed elementary building at 74th and Leighton. Freeman will be paid at the rate of 6% of the contract price.

Board members also gave final approval to the educational specifications for the building, emphasizing that while all factors pertaining to school functions are important, aesthetic aspects should not be overlooked.

The building is planned to be a three-unit school, with a maximum of 50,000 square feet of space. Multiple-use space is expected to be designed throughout the building.

Policies OK'd

Policies for organizing student summer travel to Mexico and Canada for five hours credit received board approval.

Prasch pointed out that policy recommendations for students to pay the regular $20 tuition fee plus the costs of travel and lodging reflected plans "not to subsidize" students in the program in any greater degree than any other summer school course.

In other business, the board:

—reviewed and raised no objections with the planning commission about plans for two proposed trailer parks in west Lincoln and in the Willard School area.

—approved a policy stating that when less than a full membership of the board is present a plurality of those present, but not less than three members, may pass a motion. State statutes require a majority of the board in cases of sale of properties and election of teachers.

—agreed to meet with Sheridan parents complaining about proposed changes in the rapid learner program that has been operated in seven schools. The superintendent reported that a school committee has been studying reorganization and expansion of the program for the past year.

—called for a survey of parental opinion about the length of Christmas vacation and how to handle additional school days in order to accommodate a longer recess.

AT EAST HIGH ... students patronize school's paperback bookstore.

Students Run Bookstores At Two High Schools

Distributive education students are getting some practical experience in retail sales operating paperback bookstores in two Lincoln high schools.

Distributive education classes took on the project of operating the bookstores "as a service to the students" with the accompanying benefit of a limited amount of on-the-job experience.

Only paperback books selected by the English department are on sale at Southeast High School. Pens, mod posters, folders, book covers, Cliff's Notes and other items sold by school organizations have been on sale in the same concession area operated as the book store at East High School.

Lincoln High School and Northeast High have no immediate plans to establish a book store, principals said.

Some 900 paperback books have been sold in the East High store since it opened about six weeks ago, according to distributive education teacher Mrs. Alice Scott.

Books are sold at the regular price, except for some used titles that are offered to students at reduced rates.

Mrs. Scott admitted that any experience for distributive education students is limited in the before and after school and noon-hour operation.

However, she said that students, especially from the junior high sections at East, have purchased books at the store that "probably would not have been sold at other places" because the store is convenient.

Profit at the Southeast and East stores goes to the distributive education clubs in the schools, although some East students receive a nominal salary for working in the store, according to Mrs. Scott.

Nursing School Accredited

The Lincoln Technical College's School of Practical Nursing has been accredited by the National League of Nursing, Asst. Supt. Dr. James Lightbody announced Tuesday.

The League is the recognized accrediting agency for all nursing education in the United States, Lightbody said.

The Lincoln program, first in the state to receive national accreditation, began in the fall of 1963. Since that time, 284 students have graduated and become certified practical nurses.

Clinical experience for students is arranged with Bryan Memorial, Lincoln General and St. Elizabeth Hospitals and the Madonna Nursing Home.

The School of Dental Assisting in the Lincoln Technical College is also nationally accredited by the American Dental Association.

Hanoi Refuses Entry To Texas Billionaire

Bangkok, Thailand (AP) — Hoping for a green light to go on to Hanoi, Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot is waiting it out in Thailand with a plenitude of gifts for U.S. war prisoners.

So far, North Vietnam has stuck to what it told Perot before he left the United States: all Christmas packages for U.S. prisoners should be sent by mail via Moscow.

Perot arrived in Bangkok from Hong Kong on Tuesday aboard one of two airliners loaded with 180,000 pounds of presents for the estimated 1,400 prisoners. The other airliner is waiting for word in Dallas, Tex., where Perot began the mission Sunday night.

He also plans to fly 150 women and children to Paris on Christmas to seek information from North Vietnam's delegation to the peace talks about U.S. servicemen believed captive in Vietnam.

The two planes chartered by Perot at a personal cost of $200,000 are loaded with $400,000 worth of gifts. In addition to 1,400 canned "traditional Christmas dinners," Perot said, the planes are carrying mail, family photographs, packages from home, clothing, 1,400 individual medical kits and 140 large medical kits.

Reports from Laos said a Perot aide was in Vientiane, trying to set up the Hanoi flight with North Vietnamese diplomats.

"I would be very disappointed if they turned me down," Perot told newsmen after he arrived in Bangkok. But he said if he was refused "we have several contingency plans." He did not specify the plans.

The short, crewcut Perot said his mission was strictly humanitarian, with "no military meaning."

Radio Hanoi called Perot's mission "nothing but a Nixon administration maneuver to vilify the humane policy of our government toward the U.S. marauder pilots" and accused him of "deliberately seeking to violate the regulations of our government that Christmas packages must be mailed through Moscow."

Asian Flu Hits Britain Hard; Deaths Climb

London (AP) — Deaths from Asian flu jumped 5½ times last week, the British government announced Tuesday night, and the malady was continuing to spread across the country.

About a quarter of the national total of 294 dead from the flu were in London, the Department of Health said. This compared with 52 the week before.

The emergency hospital bed service announced a 30% increase in the number admitted last week and said Monday was the busiest day.

Hospitals and medical services themselves were hard hit. In some institutions more than a third of nurses were laid up with the illness.

Bus, telephone and railroad services were curtailed in some regions because of staff shortages.

Lincoln Sells Bonds For State Buildings

City revenue bonds to finance construction of two state office buildings have been purchased by a group syndicate of 12 investment firms, city officials announced Tuesday.

The $4.7 million worth of bonds, which received an AA bond credit rating by Standard and Poor on Monday, were sold at 7% interest plus a 2% discount.

Just after the sale, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf authorized construction of the $3.4 million Nebraska telecommunications building at 33rd and Fair Sts.

The other building to be constructed is the $1.3 million headquarters building for the State Game and Parks Commission at 33rd and Leighton.

Orders Signed

Mayor Schwartzkopf signed the executive orders which authorize contractors to commence work on the telecommunications building and also accepted the deed on the land in a ceremony attended by contractors, bondholders, city officials, and representatives of those groups which will be located in the building.

General contractor is Kingery Construction Co., which bid $1,838,980 for the project.

Other contracts approved were electrical work, ABC Electric Co., $286,426; mechanical, Natkin and Co., $782,655, and elevators, O'Keefe Elevator Co., Omaha, $56,925.

The $3.4 million also includes technical equipment, furniture and furnishings and a contingency fund for the project.

Groundbreaking Set

Groundbreaking ceremonies will be in January; construction is also expected to start that month.

The building, expected to open in 1972, will house the Nebraska Educational Television Commission, the Nebraska Council for Educational Television, University of Nebraska Educational Television, the Nebraska Educational Television Council for Higher Education, the Nebraska Council for Nursing Education and the telecommunications division of the State Department of Administrative Services.

The city will build the two structures and rent them to the state at a price which will cover all city costs. The state will acquire title to the buildings once it pays for the city's expenses, which include retirement of the bonds.

To Be Resold

Charles J. Burmeister, vice president of First Mid-America Inc., one of investment firms in the syndicate, said that the bonds will be resold to investors throughout the country.

Burmeister said the 2% discount will allow the syndicate to market the bonds at different interest rates in accordance with the "tight money market situation."

"It was this 2% discount that made it possible for us to purchase the bonds," he said.

Bankers Praised

Burmeister said purchase would have been delayed if the syndicate had had to purchase the bonds at the par value.

City Finance Director James Mallon praised the Nebraska investment bankers involved for "successfully selling the bonds at the 7% interest rate in view of today's market."

Mallon noted that many cities have not been able to find buyers for their bonds.

EASTER SEAL SOCIETY PLANS $700,000 CAMP

Omaha (AP) — The Nebraska Easter Seal Society has announced plans for a $700,000 camp for crippled children and adults to be built in the Salt Valley Watershed District in northeastern Seward County.

The society's director, Gary Corn, says between 80 and 90 acres have been leased for the camp, which should open in the summer of 1971, depending on the availability of funds.

The first phase of the program is for a facility to accommodate 96 campers and from 40 to 45 staff members. The first phase is estimated to cost $550,000.

Omaha — Under Secretary of the Treasury Dr. Charles E. Walker will be the featured speaker at a Chamber Public Affairs luncheon commemorating the Omaha National Bank's move to new facilities Tuesday, Jan. 13.

Motorists Urged To Drive With Care Over Holidays

The Nebraska State Patrol takes mixed emotions into the Christmas Holiday season, Col. J. E. Kruger, superintendent of the patrol, said Tuesday.

"The period between Christmas and New Years, that should be the happiest time of the year, has many times proven to be the saddest season with regard to traffic accidents and deaths," Col. Kruger said.

"With many persons planning for four-day weekends, on both Christmas and New Years, the toll this year could reach all-time highs," he said.

Kruger said factors contributing to the accident problem include overindulgence, a rush to accomplish too much in too short a period of time, seasonal weather and road conditions and heavy pedestrian and motor vehicle traffic.

"No one wants to be deprived of the privilege of enjoying this important season of the year," he said. "So the greatest gift a motorist can give his family, his friends, his community and the state is a safe holiday season."

Residential Streets Won't Be Plowed

City Street Department Supt. Lloyd Bomberger Tuesday said that snow on residential streets would not be plowed.

Bomberger said plowing the undrained snow cover on residential streets would create "troublesome ridges of ice" in front of driveways.

He said crews have been salting and sanding arterial streets and the downtown business district.

"We are also blading those arterial streets where the snow didn't melt in the center of the streets," Bomberger said.

High Noon Wedding Town Talk

At high noon on Tuesday, Dec. 23, the marriage of Miss Hille Drake, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ellet H. Drake of Livonia, Mich., to Scott Wright, of Mountain View, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Wright of Tulsa, Okla., was solemnized by the Rev. James Stillwell of St. Matthew's Church, Episcopal, at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Ellet B. Drake.

The two attendants, maid of honor Miss Jane Agee of Mountain View, Calif., formerly of Omaha, and Miss Patte Drake of Livonia who was her sister's bridesmaid, appeared in long-skirted frocks fashioned of dark green velvet, and each carried a single, long-stemmed red rose.

Regan Wright of Lawton, Okla., served as best man, and Ronald Wright of Elizabethtown, Ky., was the groomsmen.

For the ceremony the bride chose a gown of peau de soie. An overlay of heavy lace fashioned the yoke which contoured the high, rounded neckline, and the lace was repeated at the wrists of the long sleeves. A back panel of peau de soie, caught above the shoulders with a Dior bow, extended to the hem of the long, sheath skirt. Her pouf veil was shoulder length and was held to the head with a Dior bow.

After a six months' stay in Europe Mr. Wright and his bride will reside in Palo Alto, Calif.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Mr. Wright was graduated from the University of Oklahoma where he majored in engineering.

Since this is Christmas week, and since guests have arrived — or will be arriving from here, there and everywhere, every day during the remainder of the holiday season will seem like a party day.

But there is a special party next Saturday evening — It is the cocktail party for which Mr. and Mrs. William Roper and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dobson will be hosts and hostesses at the Lincoln Country Club. The guests, many of whom are holiday visitors in Lincoln, have been invited for the hours of 6 o'clock until 8 o'clock.

It's a very merry Christmas this year for Dr. and Mrs. Max Cory who received a most welcome gift — a granddaughter.

The young lady is Miss Jennifer Ann Cory who arrived in Marina, Calif., on Saturday, Dec. 20. The baby's parents are Sgt. and Mrs. Max Cory, and her mother is the former Becky Brackle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Brackle of Fairbury, a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Phi.

We hear that Miss Jennifer won't be coming to Lincoln for Christmas, but that she will be here for Easter.

Dr. and Mrs. Cory aren't celebrating Christmas — and the granddaughter all by themselves, however. Their daughter, Miss Julie Cory, arrived home last Friday from Laramie, Wyo., where she is attending the University of Wyoming.

The coed from Wyoming will accompany her parents to Sioux City, Iowa, where they will be Christmas day guests of Mrs. Cory's aunt, Mrs. Robert Anderson, and Mr. Anderson.

On today's list of arrivals will be Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Schmidt of Kewanee, Ill., who will spend the remainder of Christmas week as the guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. White and their daughters, Cathy and Beth.

Afternoon Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Susan Phelps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurston Phelps, and Robert A. Gamer of New York City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Gamer, also of New York City, took place on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 23, at the home of the bride's parents. The Hon. Justice Hale McCown solemnized the 4 o'clock ceremony.

The bride's two sisters, Miss Julie Phelps and Miss Sally Phelps, were her attendants. Their shirtwaist frocks were fashioned with pale green, puff-sleeved blouses above long, forest green velvet skirts. The costumes were sashed with hand-painted multi-colored silk, and they carried contemporary cascade bouquets of purple seafoam statice, green fuchsia chrysanthemum petals and camellia foliage.

Paul Game of New York City served his brother as best man.

The bride appeared in a wrap-around surplus gown of hand-woven Indian silk. Her bouquet also was in the contemporary mode and was fashioned of camellia foliage accented with gold incense cedar. She wore matching foliage in her hair.

Mr. Gamer and his bride will reside in New York City.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, and Mr. Gamer received his degree at the City College of New York.

Christmas Eve has a special atmosphere that makes today one of the year's nicest days with one exception — tomorrow — when Christmas is finally here. But today is a day spiced with anticipation — for the coming of Santa Claus, for family celebrations tomorrow, for the birth of the Christ Child in our hearts. Hopefully, our cards are all sent, our presents under the tree, and our holiday baking done so that we can enjoy each other and the guests who have begun to arrive. Now the stage is set to start the merrymaking.

Some suburban households have been enjoying their holiday guests for several days. Thomas Bates for instance, a junior at Antioch College, arrived home last Friday from Yellow Springs, Ohio, to spend Christmas vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alan P. Bates of Pine Lake.

Another busy Pine Lake household is that of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reeder, where wedding preparations are sharing the honors with the Christmas festivities. Several guests already have arrived for Christmas and will stay on for the Dec. 30 wedding of Miss Enid Reeder and Peter Burroughs.

Last Wednesday, the Reeder's daughter, son-in-law and two grandchildren — Dr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Brown, Joseph and Jennifer, of Blacksburg, Va., arrived for the family celebrations. Mrs. Brown, the former Jody Reeder, is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, where her husband received his Ph.D. Dr. Brown now teaches at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Last Friday, Mr. Reeder's parents, the Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Reeder, arrived from San Diego, Calif., to spend Christmas and attend their granddaughter's wedding.

The Reeder family also had some pre-Christmas overnight guests — Mrs. Reeder's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Barker and their son, Don. The Barker threesome arrived Dec. 13 for a short visit. Mr. Barker, a University of Nebraska alumnus, is a vice-president of General Mills.

In the South Hills neighborhood, too, there was some pre-Christmas merrymaking at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hoffman. Their daughter Jill celebrated her sixth birthday with a party on Dec. 16. Friends joining the fun were Karen Ruliffson, Jan Carlin, Lory Luff, Darla James, Scott, Todd, Kip and T. J. Haight, and Jill's brother J.

Now back to Christmas Eve, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sieckmeyer will be driving to Crete tonight to spend Christmas Eve with Mr. Sieckmeyers family, the Glen Sieckmeyers.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Callaghan will be spending the evening at their home, with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs.

suburbia

David Pleskac, and their grandson, who are coming from Olathe, Kan., to make a special Christmas. Other special holiday visitors at the Callaghan home will be his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bunch, who are coming from Rising City.

It will be a very merry Christmas Eve at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vladislav Sobotka in Southbrook Summit. Twenty-two members of the family will gather to celebrate, including her sister, Mrs. Marie Dunlap, arriving today from Dwight. Mrs. Dunlap will be a guest at the Sobotka home through the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn D. Ocoback and daughters, Jan and Darice, will be in Scandia, Kan. this evening, where they will be with Mr. Ocoback's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Ocoback. Tomorrow the Ocobacks will go to Mahaska, Kan., to spend Christmas Day with Mrs. Ocoback's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Eversole.

Mr. and Mrs. Galen L. Fritchie make announcement this morning of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Lucinda Kay, to Robert B. Mathieson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Mathieson.

The wedding will take place the evening of Friday, Feb. 13, and the ceremony will be solemnized at St. Mark's United Methodist Church.

Miss Fritchie is attending the University of Nebraska.

Abby: sitters

DEAR ABBY: That "UNDERPAID SITTER" sure gave me a laugh. I am a 27-year-old mother who 10 years ago used to sit for 25 cents an hour, and I did more for my quarter than any sitter I've ever had for 50 cents.

Sitters in our day were expected to entertain the kids, pick up after them, bathe the little ones, and put them all to bed. THEN, do the dishes.

Now all the sitters do is SIT! The kids can pull the place apart and the sitter doesn't lift a finger to straighten it up. And sitters can eat you out of house and home. But what gets me is they won't even bother to carry their own empty bottles, glasses and dishes into the kitchen, let alone wash them. They just leave everything right in the room where they had their refreshments. I think I'd faint if one ever cleaned up after herself.

For my part, I wouldn't mind paying 75 cents an hour if I came home to a house that looked as tidy as it did when I left it.

But I think 75 cents an hour for someone who watches TV, talks on the phone and adds $5 to my grocery bill is 50 cents an hour too much.

HAS BEEN SITTER
DEAR ABBY: Don't let me get started on sitters and how "underpaid" they are. Some of the dillies we've had should have paid US!

One quiet little thing who always carried a Bible in her purse, thoroughly cleaned out our liquor supply before leaving town.

Another one (a bosomy college freshman) physically ATTACKED my husband while he was driving her home one evening. So surprised was he, he hit a telephone pole and broke his nose. (She said all she wanted was a KISS!)

We had a whole series of hungry kids who ate the fridge to the bare walls, but one had the gall to work out of the deep freeze and thaw stuff out in the oven.

But we decided to use only elderly ladies after a neighbor called the fire department to extinguish a fire in our house. Our teen-aged sitter and her friends were having such a gay party they didn't even know the house was on fire!

Thank heavens we don't need sitters anymore.

Attendants Named

Making announcement of the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Rosemarie Samek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Samek, whose marriage to Charles R. Dalton will be an event of Friday evening, Jan. 9.

For the 7 o'clock ceremony, which will be solemnized at St. John's Catholic Church, Miss Samek has named her sister, Miss Mary Lou Samek as her honor attendant. The bridesmaids will be Miss Sheila York, Miss Kim Johnson, Miss Connie Payne and Miss Kathy Hannigan of Omaha.

Pat Dalton of Englewood, Colo. will serve his brother as best man, and the groomsmen will be Terry Dalton, Dale Darnell, Mike Shuller and Mike Sullivan. Marion Samek and Jim Samek of Boulder, Colo. will seat the guests.

Miss Jackie Milton will serve as flower girl.

The round of pre-nuptial courtesies honoring Miss Samek began on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 23, when she was honored at a party for which Mrs. John Hannigan of Hallam entertained at her home. Assisting Mrs. Hannigan with hostess duties was Miss Kathy Hannigan of Omaha. During the informal afternoon, a group of Miss Samek's working associates presented her with a miscellaneous shower.

On Sunday afternoon, Dec. 7, Mrs. Marion Samek was hostess at a party at her home honoring the soon-to-be-bride. Miss Mary Lou Samek and Miss Sharon Samek were assistant hostesses at the miscellaneous shower which was attended by aunts and cousins of the bride-elect.

This Sunday evening Miss Samek will be honored at a personal shower for which Mrs. Scott Dosek will serve as hostess at her home. Assistant hostess will be Miss Sheila York, and the guests will include friends of the bride-elect.

How The Other Half Lives

Freeport, Grand Bahama Island — The newest playground for the peripatetic pleasure-seekers opened here during the Thanksgiving holiday weekend in an untraditional manner. Most of the 200 guests invited to Xandadu, a multimillion dollar private resort, paid their own way.

If the financial arrangements were a departure from the free junkets usually enjoyed by International fashionables, the weekend activities were not. There was sunning, swimming, water-skiing and tennis, excursions to nearby islands on private planes, gambling at the town casinos and nonstop cocktail gatherings in the areas around the pool, the bar piano of Hugh Shannon of Southampton, the art nouveau glass dance floor and aboard the Rosalie L, a 90-foot yacht owned by Joseph E. Levine, the film producer.

There was, as is usual at these things, some lagniappe and some disappointment. The lagniappe came in the form of a Thanksgiving dinner (turkey, ham, pumpkin pie topped with melted processed cheese) tendered by the board of governors. The board includes Brig. Gen. O. F. Lassiter, president of Executive Jet Aviation (who flew down in his 10-passenger stewardess-tended Falcon); Sir Francis Peek, a London and Nassau industrialist, Prince Rodrigo d'Arenberg of Paris and Giancarlo Uzielli of New York.

The disappointment was caused by the nonappearance of Mr. and Mrs. Uzielli at the cocktail-buffet party for which they had issued invitations. Mrs. Uzielli, the former Anne Ford, was reported to be ill in New York.

The club, conceived by Mel Harris, a 29-year-old entrepreneur, has been a year in construction and will not be completed until late 1970.

"Many sophisticated, affluent people don't want to be part of a convention hotel," Harris explained as he checked last-minute details.

"At most hotels, even if you take a $200-a-day suite, you go down to the lobby and see 700 pieces of luggage and a group of chemists from Ohio."

The apparent possibility of bumping into Ohio chemists at ordinary hotels has prompted 700 club memberships to date. It is expected the number will swell to 2,500 before Xandadu and planned sister resorts in other areas (Acapulco, Switzerland) are completed.

"You don't have to be a millionaire to join," said Harris as he outlined membership qualifications that took in "dressing properly (a minimum of 18 hangers is provided in each walk-in closet), being reasonably sophisticated and knowing other members."

Prospective members are vetted by a board that includes the governors and Angelo Zuccotti, the executive head waiter.

"Angelo is a bigger snob than I am," Harris said.

Zuccotti, a courtly, gray-haired man with finesse honed by 38 years at El Morocco in New York said that Xandadu would have no "Siberia." (Siberia, in a New York club, is an area usually reserved for unknown persons; generally the tables have limited visibility and are in imminent danger of being knocked over by swinging kitchen doors.)

"Here everyone is the same," he said.

The inaugural guests, a group that included Mrs. H. Loy Anderson, Mrs. John R. McLean, Richard Cowell and Dennis Boardman of Palm Beach; Harry Evans, Michael Santangelo, Mr. and Mrs. Belmont Towbin, Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Winship, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Held, Mr. and Mrs. George Stuart and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rounick of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Rafael Ramos Cobian of Puerto Rico, filled all the qualifications.

The general level of luggage was satisfactory ("it looks like a Pucci fire sale," said one guest on Thanksgiving night) and, what with $400-a-year membership, $48-a-day rooms, a lar carte meals and $1.50 drinks, the general level of affluence was more warming than the sunshine.

Opening lead — two of spades.

How should declarer play this hand? When he counts his losers he sees that he must lose a spade trick, come what may.

He doesn't know how he stands in hearts, since he may lose one or two trump tricks, possibly none, depending on how the missing cards are divided.

He has no club losers, since he can presumably ruff two clubs in dummy, but he does have a diamond loser to contend with.

South's best line of play is to win East's queen of spades with the ace and immediately return a spade.

The chief reason for this is that it may be possible to eventually establish either one or two good spade tricks in dummy — and this will almost surely prove helpful later on, even if it turns out that he must lose two trump tricks.

East wins the spade return at trick two and leads back a diamond. South hopefully plays the queen, but West covers with the king and dummy takes the ace.

A spade is now led, East showing out as declarer ruffs. After playing a club to the king, South ruffs dummy's fourth spade, finally establishing the ten as a trick.

The hand is now shaping up nicely, and, barring a 4-0 trump break, the contract is in the bag. South leads the ace of hearts, then cashes the ace of clubs and ruffs a club in dummy.

He now discards the nine of diamonds on the spade ten. West, who still has the K-J of hearts, can score only these two tricks and South makes exactly four hearts.

The long-term view, taken at the start of the hand — that an extra spade trick might eventually come home to roost — pays off at the end.

County Board Questioned On Inaction On Valuations

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday were questioned by Assessor Fritz Meyer regarding their failure for the fourth consecutive week to act on the scientific reappraisal of real estate in the county.

Meyer said that he would like to know if the board "ever intends to accept or reject it" since the delay creates problems with the work of the assessor's office.

He said he would like to have a decision one way or another so that a value on all real estate could be recorded for the assessment date Jan. 1.

"If we haven't established a value by Jan. 1 we can't process the homestead exemption applications," he said.

"Must Have Values"
"We won't do anything with the homestead exemption applications but pile them up in a pile until we have a set of values to go by," Meyer said.

He said if there were anything his office could do or any further information it could furnish the board he would be glad to cooperate.

Meyer said he had made periodic checks and comparisons with the reappraisal figures as the work was underway and felt that Cole-Layer-Trumble had done a good job.

He said there may be some inequities and if so, they will be straightened out. He further suggested that if the commissioners felt that some of the values were too high or some were too low that they hire an appraiser to value the properties so that those values might be compared with those arrived at by the appraisal firm.

Mistake Made?
Commissioner William

Grossman, who is chairman of the county board of equalization, said that he felt that the board had "made a mistake" in not allowing the appraisal firm to place deferred values on vacant lots.

He said that Patrick McGuirk, who was in charge of the reappraisal for Cole-Layer-Trumble, "had wanted us to do it" and added that it was done that way elsewhere. "We were led to believe that we should not do it this way, but it was wrong," he said.

Grossman said that Meyer was opposed to placing deferred values on vacant lots (lower values used until there are improvements on the property) and "we went along" but "we think it's wrong now."

Down 'Blind Alley'
Commissioner Ralph Harlan

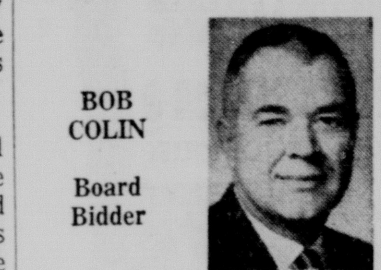

said the commissioners had been "led down a blind alley on this thing. . . the state first tells us what to do and then tells us what we shall set the values at."

He specifically pointed to the appraisal firm's raising rural land values 20% after the state tax commissioner's office examined the reappraisal figures and told the appraisal firm that the rural land values were too low and would have to be raised 20%.

The commissioners recessed their meeting without making any decision or indicating when a decision would be made.

Colin Enters County Race As Republican

Lincoln businessman Bob Colin Sr. filed Tuesday on the Republican ticket for the Lancaster County commissioner post

BOB COLIN
Board Bidder

now held by Democrat Ralph Harlan.

Colin, 49, of 6011 Highway 2, stated that he felt his business experience and education gave him excellent qualifications for the commissioner post.

As owner and operator of Colin Electric, Colin said his "experience in purchasing, budgeting, accounting, inventory control, personnel management and dealing with the general public would qualify him to bring good sound management to county government."

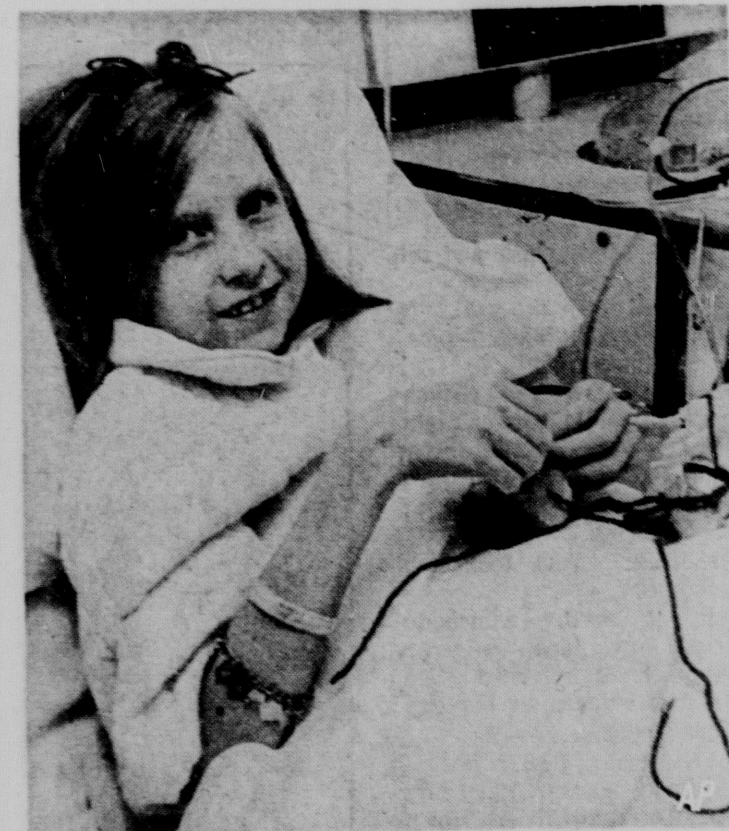

Colin, who was a registered Republican prior to filing for Lancaster County sheriff in the 1966 election had changed his political registration to Democrat to oppose Sheriff Merle Karnopp.

After being defeated by Karnopp by a 9,000 vote margin, Colin again registered as a Republican.

Sale Of Bonds At 77% Of Goal

Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares in Nebraska during November amounted to $3,108,201, it was reported Tuesday. Eleven-month sales totaled $38,791,070 for 77.6% of the state sales goal for the year.

Lancaster County sales for the month totaled $321,627, bringing the year's sales to date to $4,063,096, or 96.9% of the county goal.

State Withholding To Be About 12%

Nebraska income tax withholding effective Jan. 1, 1970, will amount to about 12% of the total federal tax withheld, State Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil said Tuesday.

The 12% computation should be used by employers so that amount of the state tax withholding will be substantially equivalent to the individual's income tax liability.

The State Board of Equalization has set the individual state income tax to 13% of the adjusted federal income tax liability before the federal surtax.

McNeil said the 12% withholding rate takes into account the proposed extension until June 30, 1970, of the federal tax surcharge of 5%.

9 NWU Students Elected Members Of Pi Gamma Mu

Nine Nebraska Wesleyan University students have been elected to Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honorary, the university announced Tuesday.

The students were selected on the basis of superior work in economics, geography, history, political science, psychology and sociology, the university said.

Those elected were Linda E. Babcock, Omaha; Susan K. Hennessey, Lincoln; Larry D. Kallemeyn, Hickman; Dennis D. McGee, Smithfield; Jerry A. Retherford, Lincoln; David A. Seaver, Wahoo; Sandra L. Sommer, Merna; Joyce L. Sorenson, Cairo, and Jo Ann Young, Lincoln.

NWU Scholarship Honors Dr. Gorst

A scholarship in memory of a former Nebraska Wesleyan University trustee has been established for use by preministerial men student.

The scholarship honors Dr. William Gorst, who served on the executive committee of the Board from 1898 to 1913. It was created by Mrs. Vera Gorst Kilborn, Indianapolis, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton W. Gorst, White Bear Lake, Minn., in memory of their uncle.

County Welfare Offices To Begin Simplified Eligibility System Feb. 1

County welfare offices will begin using a new simplified system of determining eligibility in old age, blind and disabled assistance cases on Feb. 1, State Welfare Director Harold Strode said Tuesday.

Under the new federally authorized procedure, Strode said an assistance application can be immediately processed and eligibility determined at the county level.

"Eligibility will be determined immediately on information supplied by the applicant," he said. "Then the applications will be spot-checked and verified later under a more streamlined procedure."

"Caseworkers will be handling people, not paper," he said.

Under the present system, determination of eligibility has been deferred until caseworkers could fully verify all information on an application.

Strode said the simplified system has been tested in five counties for the past several months and "is extremely reliable."

Strode said the system will free caseworkers from paper work routines and enable them to work with people.

Two regional training sessions have been held for county welfare directors and their staffs and two more are scheduled later this month.

Strode said the same procedure for aid to dependent children (ADC) cases will be initiated on July 1 under a federal directive.

Audits of Nebraska welfare assistance cases over the years show a high-degree of honesty and "no cheating," Strode said.

Errors that have been found have been honest ones, he said. The simplified system will still detect errors and any cheating, but will also streamline the process for caseworkers and recipients.

Hoefs Wins NU Scholarship For His Creativity In Music

Michael Dean Hoefs of Arapahoe is the fifth recipient of a creativity award to attend the University of Nebraska.

The award, which provides full tuition for one year, is financed by the University of Nebraska Foundation and is given to students who show creative promise in the arts but might not otherwise be eligible for a scholarship grant.

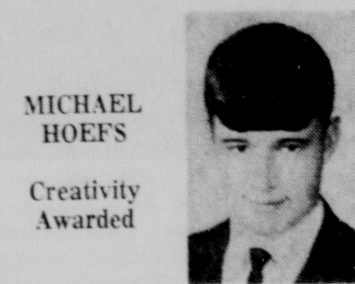

Mike, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dean Hoefs, live on a farm near Arapahoe, made his mark as a musician at Arapahoe High School, where he played trumpet in the band and was piano accompanist for singing groups at the school.

To win his creativity award, Mike submitted a piano solo that he had composed, which he said was the first music he had written. He was selected by faculty members who judged his entry.

Like other creativity award winners at the university, Mike has been assigned to a faculty member who is himself a creative scholar. Mike's advisor is Prof. Robert Beadell, who is a widely recognized composer.

He is also polishing his skills as a pianist, studying with Prof. Thomas Fritz of the School of Music faculty.

Mike admits that his is a somewhat musical family. He has an older brother, Larry, attending the university who has been majoring in music but this year switched to animal science. There are two sisters at home.

MICHAEL HOEFS
Creativity Awarded

The program of creativity awards was begun at the University of Nebraska last year and may be the first such awards made by a land-grant university. They are given to recognize and encourage young creative talent in Nebraska.

Barbara Moore Is Named Editor Of NWU Paper

Barbara Moore of Lincoln has been chosen editor of the Nebraska Wesleyan University student newspaper, The Paper, it was announced Tuesday.

Miss Moore, a sophomore, succeeds Wallace Randall, a Washington, D.C., senior.

Dennis Schwanke of Lincoln will continue as business manager and Dennis Wertz of Lincoln was chosen to retain his post as advertising manager.

Garbage Hauling Plan Outlined For County

A plan for garbage disposal throughout the rural county areas was presented to the Lancaster County Board Tuesday by City-County Health Director G. R. Underwood.

He said Commissioner William Grossman had asked him to present the plan as implemented in Huntsville, Ala., for possible consideration for Lancaster County.

Dr. Underwood said in the Alabama county, which is comparable in size to Lancaster but approximately 50% larger in population, the area was divided into sanitary districts of between 1,570 and 2,000 houses and businesses.

He said that container trains pick up garbage from residences and businesses weekly and dump the material in the City of Huntsville's landfill.

Residents Pay City

The rural residents pay about $19,000 per year to the City of Huntsville for use of their landfill, Dr. Underwood said.

The container trains consist of three steel boxes pulled by a four-wheel drive truck.

He said each family is assessed a monthly fee of $1.50 for disposal service while businesses' assessments vary from $3 to $5 depending upon the size of the business and its waste materials.

Added To Bill

He said in Alabama the bill for the service is added onto the residents' electricity bills and that the electric company is paid 15c per disposal service user for processing the bills.

The cost of the equipment including the container trains was $129,000 in Huntsville but would probably be less in Lancaster County, Dr. Underwood said.

He said individuals to operate the container trains were residents of the various districts participating.

The system doesn't lend itself to city operation but works in rural areas and small villages, Dr. Underwood said.

$1,000 Worth Of Copper Cable Reported Stolen

Police were investigating Tuesday the theft of approximately $1,080 worth of transmission copper cable and line tools from Communication Service Center at 1918 Clinton.

The tools and two rolls of cable were taken sometime between Sept. 29 and Dec. 22, officials of the firm told police.

No Toll Collected During Christmas

Burlington, N.J. (UPI) — The Burlington County Bridge Commission announced Tuesday it will follow its Christmas Day custom of doing away with the toll on its two bridges between New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Since 1959 toll collectors have handed out Christmas cards and Yule greetings instead of collecting money on Christmas Day at the Burlington-Bristol and Tacony-Palmyra Bridges.

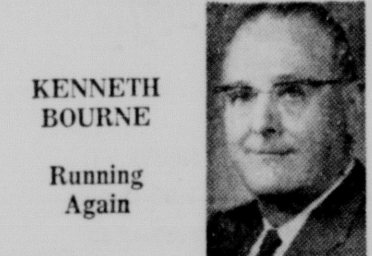

Official Of AEC Will Speak Here

Dr. Theos J. Thompson, commissioner of the Atomic Energy Commission and a native of Lincoln, has accepted an invitation to speak at Nebraska Wesleyan in connection with the college's Year of the Sciences program.

Dr. Thompson will appear March 13 in connection with a Nuclear Science Symposium.

Bourne Seeks 4th Term On County Board

Lancaster County Commissioner Kenneth Bourne Tuesday became the second incumbent county official to file

KENNETH BOURNE
Running Again

for office as he filed for re-election to a fourth term as commissioner from the third district.

County Clerk Carl Hartman was the first incumbent to file for re-election.

Bourne, 60, of 1850 Pawnee, was first elected to the post in 1958 and is currently serving as board chairman.

He is also serving as chairman of the Lancaster County Board of Public Welfare, a member of the Civil Defense advisory board and on the board of directors of the Nebraska County Officials Association.

In a prepared statement, Bourne said that during the last few years, county government "has always shown progress in developing modern ways and conveniences to serve its citizens."

"It has kept with the times in the jobs given it by the people with a minimum of funds and also has always strived to maintain the lowest possible mill levy — all of which I am proud to have a part of."

Series Of Meets Set For Democrats

A series of meetings for County Democratic Party officials will be held across Nebraska during January and February, State Chairman Hess Dyas announced Tuesday.

"This will give us a chance to sit down with county officers to map out and make plans for the challenge of 1970," he said.

Dyas said he expected two meetings would be held in the first congressional district, one in the second district and three in the third.

The chairman also announced a state party executive committee meeting would be held Jan. 10 in Lincoln.

A question about pre-arrangements

What are the advantages of making arrangements before need? The most important advantage is that those left behind are spared the burden of making painful decisions.

HOVLAND SWANSON

We will close Christmas Eve at 4:30 P.M.

POSTCARD

by

Stan Delaplaine

We thought we'd never make it. "When will it be Christmas?" cried the poppets. "A couple of weeks, be patient," I said.

Then—"One week. Keep your shirt on." Then—"Only five more days. Will you be quiet while I'm reading?"

They said despairingly: "It will never be Christmas!"

I said: "Oh yes it will. I guarantee it."

The Silver Fox of Shady Acres.

I don't guarantee much except that time flies. How come so fast? When I was waiting for Santa Claus, time flew slowly. Like a Piper Cub. Now time flies, supersonic. Faster than sound—but no afterhang, no sonic boom.

Just a gentle hiss like air leaking out of a tire.

It is calendar time again. This is how I know time passes.

The pad I tear a sheet off each day is thin. Down to the metal plate. The place I buy glasses sends me a 1970 calendar for my pocket.

"Have your eyes examined regularly," says the calendar. (What is good for the eyeglass people is good for America.)

The airline calendars come stuffed in cardboard tubes. Each page shows another delight far, far away.

(If I fly Platonic Airlines will that deep dish coconut pie in the wraparound still be on that South Pacific beach? Is that doll in the miniskirt really waiting on the bridge in London?)

I shouted to the small fry: "Christmas is just about here! Do you hear the news?"

Everybody is sharpening up around here. Being very good. If you are good Santa Claus leaves toys. If you are bad, he puts a big lump of coal in your stocking.

We have only one Santa Claus believer left. Another has passed into the ranks of the cynics—yes, Virginia.

"It's only your father and mother," she said. "So how could I get coal?"

I said coolly: "Do you think I don't know where they sell coal?"

Oh. The Silver Fox has all the answers.

There are two lists with the airlines: Fruit cake and calendars. The airline people send these to valued customers. To travel agents and column writers.

If they value you a lot—fruit cake.

If they value you but not so much—a calendar.

Once I graduated from calendar to fruit cake. I had it made.

But a few years ago I slipped back to calendars. What was my mistake? Where did I fail?

Hey, one airline is not going to give calendars at all this year! They figure (after all these calendar years) it's a useless expense.

If all the airlines follow this thinking, we'll never know what day it is. Won't know that time is flying—first class and all that extra leg room.

I shouted down the hall, "If you don't stop that blasted noise, I'll cancel Christmas!"

We saw "How The Grinch Stole Christmas" the other night on TV. I could be pretty grinchy if I chose. Hard enough to work these Christmasy days without all the bickering.

I shouted: "Who took my Scotch tape?"

Well, it seems somebody borrowed my tape to wrap presents. It is returned. The Silver Fox returns to his den and locks the door.

We hung a new calendar: "Come To Tahiti!" A brown vahine is dipping her brown tootsies in the warm, blue lagoon. Her wraparound is wrapped carelessly. She is probably singing that song we used to hear at Quinn's.

"Allo, Pape, 'ow are you?"

(They're tearing down Quinn's at Papeete to build an office building. Tempus slow down. What's the big hurry?)

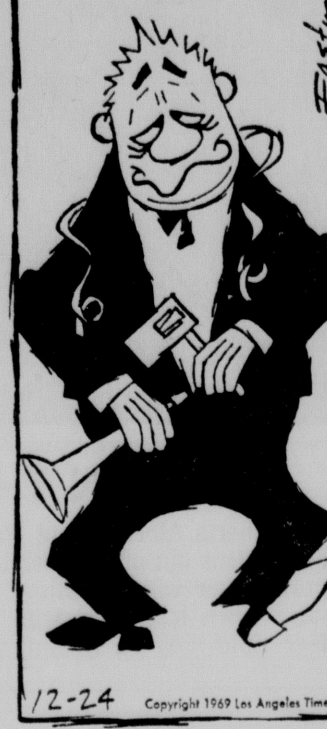

"What are we getting for Christmas?" cried the children. "Can't tell before Christmas morning," I said. "It will never be Christmas!" They said.

I said: "Keep an eye on the bluebird. It will."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Wednesday

Home entertainment is accented with moon in Cancer. Family reunions, demonstrations of affection and faith should be spotlighted.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): The comfort of knowing plans are in order should prevail. Otherwise, seek aid from older, knowledgeable person. Key is organization. Then you can enjoy holiday spirit!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may feel put upon by relatives, neighbors. Remember, it is actually good to give — Discomfort is but temporary. Smile.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Children who appear to act in eccentric manner are merely responding to holiday excitement. Be patient. Last-minute shopping could wreck budget plans. But it may be worth it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Excitement centers around home base. There are minor disagreements, nourished by general confusion. This can, in positive manner, be stimulating. Have fun. Use it!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You do best by allowing others to express opinions freely. Not easy for you to remain in background — but, for sake of harmony, do so. Applies especially with 23-Sept. 22.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friends will be presenting you with gifts. Check your own list. Avoid embarrassing moments by being thorough. Some details tend to escape attention, unless you are persistent.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Air of excitement is featured. Your personal magnetism is electric. You impress, prestige rises! Make the most of what could be a wonderful evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be a good listener, observer. Keep promise to one who may be at a distance. Get call through early. Enter into holiday spirit in meaningful, spiritual manner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Minor dispute concerning finances should not be blown out of proportion. Many around you exhibit changes of mood. Don't compound error. Adhere to promises, principles.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Strengthen ties of affection. Know that one who may seem indifferent does have your welfare at heart. Be mature, analytical. Then this becomes happy, constructive evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friend who is life of party may be covering emotional wound. Be lenient. But also be firm when you know enough liquid refreshment has been served.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Office party can be fun. But don't take too seriously things that are said, done. Obtain hint from Aquarius message. Degree of moderation is definitely advised.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are fond of music, love beautiful surroundings. You are coming out of emotional turmoil. If single, you could soon find right person. If married, financial picture is due to brighten.

Colorado mascot Ralphie—A lifetime pass to Nebraska's Memorial Stadium presented personally by Nebraska athletic director Bob Devaney.

Penn State football coach Joe Paterno—A gag to keep him from making Missouri gridders any madder.

St. Louis Cardinals manager Red Schoendienst—A year's supply of aspirins to take care of the headaches he'll have with Richie Allen.

Loyal Kansas football writers—A new set of crying towels to replace the ones they wore out the week following the Nebraska game.

Colorado football coach Eddie Crowder — A copy of the Okei from Moskoge record.

Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano—A hat in which to put his cagers' numbers to help him in selecting substitutes.

Los Angeles Rams coach George Allen — Ear muffs for Saturday's snow bowl game at Minneapolis with the Vikings.

Omaha Mustangs — A coffin so they can be appropriately buried.

Lincoln Country Club pro Bud Williamson — Any aspirins Red Schoendienst might not need from his supply since Bud has the state ladies golf tournament this summer.

Cotton Bowl officials — Another 50,000 seats so they can take care of about half the people who still want tickets to see the Notre Dame-Texas game.

Nebraska ticket manager Jim Pittenger — More help to handle the added demand for tickets for next season that is going to result from the Sun Bowl victory.

Nebraska business manager Bill Fisher — A new ax for chopping down unauthorized popcorn stands.

Nebraska sports information director Don Bryant — A full-time assistant which he needs since football success at Nebraska so often causes that sport to overlap with basketball.

All those we've missed in our last-minute shopping — A Merry Christmas.

Devaney Thinks Huskers Should Be Rated In Top Ten

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney Tuesday directed a pitch for his Husker football team, 45-6 Sun Bowl victors over Georgia, to the nation's football pollsters.

"I feel we should be ranked in the top 10 and we should be ranked as high as possible," the Husker coach told a special meeting of the Extra Point Club's weekly Quarterback Luncheon. "If you noticed in the final two United Press International coaches polls, we received one first place vote and I'd cast that same vote again."

Devaney was directing his pitch to the Associated Press panel of writers and broadcasters, who will cast their final ballots after the New Year's Day bowl games.

"At the end of the year, we could have played with any team in the country," Devaney asserted.

Devaney called the Husker performance against Georgia "as good, if not the best we played all year. And Georgia wasn't that bad a team."

"They had never been out of a game all year and they played some tough opponents like Tennessee, Auburn and Mississippi."

The Nebraska boss was full of praise for both his offensive and defensive platoons Tuesday.

"We had great opportunities set up by our defense in the first quarter and Georgia at no time threatened to score when our first team was in there on defense," he pointed out.

And he noted the defense was helped by the kickoffs of Paul Rogers which continually went through the end zone, forcing Georgia to start time after time at its own 20.

"Georgia was one of the best kickoff return teams I've ever seen and the couple of times they did get to return a kick, they returned it to good field position. But most of the time, Rogers kept them from doing that."

Turning to the Husker offense, he pointed out, "As the season came along, our offense gained as much pride as our defense had in that's a lot of pride."

Devaney gave his assistant coaches full credit for the successful season and for the convincing win over Georgia, adding, "They did all the work in getting ready for Georgia."

"All I did was work a little with Paul Rogers," referring to Rogers' record four field goals in the first quarter.

Explaining why films of the game were not available for showing at the noon luncheon, he said, "We didn't get much money from the Sun Bowl and to economize, we asked Georgia to make prints of the game films for us."

"They're editing them and couldn't get the job done in time for us to have them today."

Looking ahead to next season, Devaney called tight end and center the biggest problems offensively and middle guard the big problem for the defense.

"We had a great middle guard in Ken Geddes," Devaney said. "Against Georgia, he was in their backfield more than any one back they had."

"Ken was in their backfield so quick that one of the officials told me, 'I think you're offside, but I haven't caught you yet.'"

Of Big Eight offensive sophomore of the year Jeff Kinney, he said, "We'll find some place for him to play. Jeff says he's a fine blocker and could play guard if we wanted him to, but I don't think we'll ask him to do that."

Looking toward Southern Cal, the 1970 opening foe, the NU head coach pointed out, "They aren't going to be decimated by graduation."

"They've got nine of 11 offensive starters coming back, so don't give away too many points in betting. Get the best deal you can."

And he pointed out there's a possibility the Huskers could be playing their 1970 home schedule on AstroTurf.

"If the 11th game is approved for next season and we can find an opponent that we can play for a small guarantee, one that's not rated in the top 10, we'll use the money to put AstroTurf on our field," he said.

Big Ten Killer Climbs To Fifth In AP Cage Toll

... KENTUCKY STILL NO. 1

Compiled From News Wires

Ohio University's basketball team, the Big Ten killers who crippled three more teams last week to bring their record to 8-0, has jumped from No. 10 in The Associated press poll to the fifth spot.

The Mid-American Conference Bobcats, who have beaten four Big Ten teams this season (Purdue, Ohio State, Northwestern and Indiana), play Fresno, Calif. State College Friday night.

"Being ranked high on the poll is an honor to the young men on the team, but builds incentive for our opponents," Jim Snyder, OU head basketball coach said Tuesday.

The Kentucky Wildcats, who stretched their unbeaten string to six games by clobbering Duke, 98-76, remained in the No. 1 spot. They received 27 of 31 first place votes in the weekly poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

In the United Press International poll, Kentucky continued to be No. 1 also, receiving 21 of 34 first place votes. UCLA was second, getting 13 votes for first.

Kansas, unranked the previous week, vaulted all the way to ninth on the chart after winning its own Jayhawk

WALLY ANDERZUNAS . . . Royal rookie.

Anderzunas Itching To Join Pro Action

Cincinnati, Ohio — It's been a typical rookie season for the Cincinnati Royals' Wally Anderzunas.

Like the majority of college newcomers who enter the rough, slam-bang world of professional basketball, Wally has spent more time on the bench than on the basketball court.

It's no secret that he's the Royals' 12th man at the moment. But you have to give the youngster credit — he doesn't let it get him down.

You can usually find Anderzunas seated on the Royals' bench somewhere between trainer "Doc" Keefe and coach Bob Cousy. From his seat on the sidelines, the former Creighton star looks at the NBA as though he were on the outside of a glass capsule knocking to get in.

"There's times in a game when you see a ball close by, or a guy misses a pass or a layup or something like that and you sit there and think to yourself, 'if I had a chance to get in there, at least I could do that,'" says Wally.

Does the urge ever creep into his tormented mind that if the players on the floor make enough mistakes, his time for exposure would come that much quicker. Does he find himself hoping that teammates fail?

"I'd never wish that," he says. "Even if we won the game and I didn't play, I'd still feel part of the team."

Wally came to the Royals in a trade with Atlanta which is not a difficult thing, simply because of the terror of coach Richie Guerin of the Hawks.

"He'll get the best out of each ballplayer," says Anderzunas. "He'll embarrass you in front of people to get you to do something and then you'll have to do it. That's not right; calling you names in front of people. How can you respect a guy like that?"

Perhaps Guerin was upset

because Zelmo Beaty had decided to jump the team. At any rate, the team's rookie camp was fierce. "It was a dog-eat-dog thing," remembers Wally of the seven-day camp conducted in average 95 degree heat. "It was hard, physically hard because of the free agents. They had 28 people in camp. There was a lot of fighting and stuff like that. To show you how it was, the first day there was a broken leg, a broken wrist and a broken ankle."

"It was like the gladiatorial shows. Throw the ball on the floor and whoever got it was the winner. You got to be a masochist to go out and want to hurt a guy."

"A guy would be scoring, Richie would say, 'go out there and flatten him. Go out there and hit him.' It was do anything you have to do to stop him. He loved it."

Violence is rampant in the NBA, also, Wally believes, if attacked, you must retaliate.

"Whatever it takes, you've got to have the man's respect," he says, "or else he'll just push you right out of the league. Nobody wants to fight Willis Reed but if you're going to get hit, you might as well hit back. It comes down to a matter of respect."

In the Royals' first 32 games this season, Anderzunas broke into 14 of them for a total of 63 minutes. He hit 15 of 37 shots taken from the floor and five of 10 from the foul line along with pulling in 15 rebounds.

High production for one game was eight points which he scored against Chicago on Nov. 21. In that game, in which the Royals romped to an easy 133-119 victory, Wally got into "garbage time" early and hit on all four of his shots.

Then there's Oscar Robertson, a teammate of Anderzunas' now and the rookie is still awed by the great performer.

"He makes me so mad sometimes," declares the rookie. "You've probably seen me shaking my head on the bench. He makes things look so darned easy. It just isn't fair. You think, 'God, how can he do it?'"

Anderzunas and the rest of coach Cousy's Royals will make their first of three appearances at the Omaha Civic Auditorium this season on Jan. 11 when they meet the Phoenix Suns.

For likeable Wally, it'll be coming home. You'll be able to see him. He's the guy sitting between the trainer and Cousy, shaking his head.

—GATOR BOWL MAY BE HIGH-SCORING—

Teams Enjoy Good Times, But Antics Scare Coaches

Daytona Beach, Fla. (AP) — A high-scoring Gator Bowl football game is anticipated Saturday by the 70,000 ticket holders, and Florida coach Ray Graves said Tuesday he agrees.

"Our best chance to win is to out-score them, so I'm hoping for a wide-open game," Graves said. "If Tennessee is able to play ball control, we would have trouble getting field position and that would certainly reduce our scoring chances."

Graves continued to mix pleasure with practice for his squad in this oceanfront resort city. The Gators had high speed spins around Daytona International Speedway before taking the practice field.

Some players gave their coaches and speedway officials a fright when they drove their own or borrowed cars on the high banked track after getting chauffeured rides from retired race driver Marvin Panch and NASCAR official Phil Holmer.

The amateurs were black flagged off the track by Bill France Jr., Speedway general manager.

"They don't have blowout proof tires on those cars," France said.

The Tennessee Volunteers, headquartered 100 miles north at Jacksonville Beach, also mixed entertainment with serious practice. Their schedule included an aircraft carrier visit and deep sea fishing.

Coach Doug Dickey refused to predict either a high-scoring or a close to the vest type game.

"I'm sure it will be a close game unless one team gets a lot of breaks," he said, "but I'll leave it to the sportswriters to decide whether it will be high-scoring close or low-scoring close."

The Florida sophomore passing combination of John Reeves to Carlos Alvarez, keystone of an 8-1 season, will meet a strong Tennessee secondary defense.

Tennessee picked off 30 passes by opponents during its 9-1 season. Reeves, usually consistent, suffered a national record nine interceptions against Auburn, the only Florida contender.

The Florida defense, sometimes porous but tough near the goal line, faces a rugged test from Tennessee runners Curtis Watson and Don McLeary.

Watson gave the Vols the kind of flashy sophomore performance that Reeves, Alvarez, Tommy Durrance and Mike Rich manufactured in the Florida backfield.

"They aren't just a passing team," Dicky observed.

It was the second monthly prize in the poll for Reed. The National Basketball Association star was picked for last January.

Clark Nets 45 Points Enroute To Player Of Week Honors

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The Imperial High basketball team had two reasons to celebrate its 79-66 win over Bridgeport last weekend.

The Longhorns presented coach Lamoine Carmichael with his 100th victory as their head coach and 6-5 senior center Jerry Clark set a new school scoring record.

Clark, with 45 points, broke his own mark of 44 counters tallied last year and in doing so earned himself Player of the Week honors.

Clark connected on 16 of 28 shots from the field and added 13 free throws on 16 chances from the charity stripe for his record-setting total.

The victory gave Imperial an unblemished 5-0 mark for the young season.

Others who had outstanding games over the past weekend and deserve special recognition include:

Dean Hass, Malcolm — Paced the Clippers to a pair of wins. He scored 34 points in a 94-70 win over Douglas and then added 27 in topping Cedar Bluffs, 78-72.

Gary Filipi, Milligan — Dumped in 11 of 15 shots, despite being double-teamed, and made 10 of 12 free throws to tally 32 points against Dorchester.

Dan Beck, Elmwood — Dan had 28 and 29 points in his two games last weekend, but more importantly pulled a total of 58 rebounds off the boards in the two outings.

Robin Casper, Hildreth — Had the biggest point total of his career with 37 counters in leading Hildreth to a 90-71 triumph over Sumner.

Earl Spitsnogle, Odell — A 6-2 sophomore, Earl continued his season-long scoring spree with 52 points in two games last week to keep the Tigers win streak intact.

Randy Mayo, Broken Bow — His last minute basket was the most important points the 6-4 center scored all night, (he had 12 to lead his team) for it provided the margin of victory in a hard-fought 48-47 win over Central City.

Charlie Bieck, Kearney Catholic — This veteran front-line performer poured in 36 points to topple Hildreth from the ranks of the unbeaten, 86-62.

Archery Season For Deer Hunting Ends Dec. 31

Nebraska's archers have until one-half hour after sunset on New Year's Eve to bag their deer.

The bow-and-arrow deer action began on Sept. 20. So far, more than 600 of the silent hunters have brought down a mule or white-tailed deer. The 1969 archery-deer season is open statewide and hunters may take a deer of either sex.

Over 4,000 permits were sold this year, putting a record number of the enthusiastic sportsmen afield. Last year 3,578 hunters purchased permits and 16½ met with success.

Parking Lots, Facilities For Hunters Add Convenience

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Remember when the hunting areas were uncrowded? And you didn't have to stand in line to shoot your game or fish your favorite stream?

Now the surge in hunters and fishermen have caused more conservation laws to be passed and in some areas, the sport has been commercialized to provide hunting and fishing with a medium of both.

A wetlands work project in eastern South Dakota has been supplemented by federal funds requested from the Department of the Interior by Senator Karl Mundt, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee. Now the area is undergoing a massive change from the old to the new, modern-type area that will offer convenience to the hunter and will "protect and produce more wildlife."

"To date, more than a half million dollars has been spent to make these areas produce more wildlife," the Bureau said in a recent release, "and to protect the natural resources of these wetlands."

However, it is debatable whether the improvements will help wildlife growth or hinder it. Parking areas are reported installed at many of the tracts to accommodate hunters in the idea that the areas set aside for parking will "prevent damage to the habitat by vehicles."

Directional signs and entrance controls have also been installed. In addition, all the small wetlands tracts are being posted with a newly designed sign which marks them as open to public use.

Sounds like an open invitation for wildlife slaughter since the majority of modern hunters are 'fair weather' outdoorsmen who brag to their friends about being another Daniel Boone when in reality they will fold and pass if offered a chance to go hunting when the weather is against them.

The true hunter will probably avoid these areas since hunting is more than a killing game to them and offers them a chance to get out in the open away from city life and day-to-day headaches.

The Department of the Interior deserves a vote of thanks though for trying to preserve threatened wildlife with these appropriations, but opening them to the public is just defeating their purpose.

The appropriations are also being used for planting cover and native grasses and legumes along with construction of dikes in shallow marshes to provide water areas which should allow for an accumulation of wildlife. But to build parking areas for hunters' cars so more can enjoy this is not a way it should be.

Leave it wide open with no parking areas and make the hunter work for his game. He will enjoy the benefits more and it will provide a natural training ground for a father to introduce his son to hunting and fishing the way it should be. Not tied up and delivered in a gaily-wrapped Christmas present bright with tinsel to be opened at will.

Huff Family Football Players Make New Year's Proud Day

South Bend, Ind. (AP) — A certain football family in Toledo, Ohio, is destined to be all in a Huff on New Year's Day.

But it will be a proud day, nevertheless, for Peter Huff, one of whose sons, Marty, will be linebacker for Michigan in the Rose Bowl while another, Andy, will be halfbacking for Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl.

Pere Peter, who played end for Bo McMillin's Indiana teams in the late 1930s, had a bit of a quandary deciding which bowl game to attend.

But as Irish sophomore Andy said: "If Dad can make it, he'll go see the Rose Bowl game."

Jockeys Refuse Rides, Liberty Bell Cancels

Philadelphia (AP) — Racing was canceled at Liberty Bell Race Track Tuesday after the jockeys voted unanimously not to ride over a racing strip they deemed unsafe.

The condition developed due to a quick freeze after Monday's heavy rains.

Chadron Announces Pairings

Chadron — The pairings for the Chadron State College Invitational Basketball Tournament to be held Dec. 29-30-31 in Chadron have been announced by CSC basketball coach Mack Peyton.

As during the past three years, the tourney will include a college division and two high school divisions. The college division will draw eight schools from eight states. All the high school teams are from Nebraska.

In the opening round of the college division, Northern Montana of Havre will play Phillips University of Enid, Okla.; South Dakota Tech of Rapid City will clash with Wayland Baptist of Plainview, Tex.; Buena Vista of Storm Lake, Iowa, will meet Western State College of Gunnison, Colo.; and Chadron will battle Valley City College of Valley City, N.D.

The defending champion in Class I of the high school division, Gering, will meet Gordon in the opening round. Other first round games in the division will pit Kimball against Alliance, Chadron against Bridgeport and Mitchell against Elkhorn.

In the Class II portion the high school division, defending champion Rushville will take on Alliance St. Agnes, Cody will play Morrill, Spencer will play Aurora and Crawford will meet Hay Springs.

The defending champion of the college division, Panhandle A&M of Goodwell, Okla., is not returning to the tourney.

Wampfler Goes To CSU

New Philadelphia, Ohio (AP) — Jerry Wampfler, an assistant football coach at Notre Dame, said Tuesday he has accepted the head coaching job at Colorado State University.

Wampfler, who played tackle in 1951-52 at Miami University of Ohio under Ara Parseghian, now Notre Dame head coach, said, "Ara Parseghian is probably the greatest all-around coach in the business. But I am looking forward to Colorado State and the competition in the relatively new and up-and-coming Western Athletic Conference."

"The facilities at the school are marvelous, and we will do our best to give them a winning program."

The official announcement of Wampfler's selection probably will be made today. His selection was carried in reports by the Denver Post and the Fort Collins Coloradoan.

Wampfler succeeds Mike Lude, who was dismissed after the 1969 season. In eight years at CSU, Lude's teams posted a 29-51 record and had a 4-6 mark this year. His team failed to win a conference game.

Burchard Lake Open For Fishing

All of Burchard Lake will be open to fishermen beginning Friday, notes the Game and Parks Commission.

Fishing is restricted to the face of the dam during the waterfowl seasons. With the close of the goose season, anglers will again have the entire area to pursue their sport. Known for its bass, crappie, and bluegill, the lake is located northeast of Burchard in Pawnee County.

—EX-GRIDDER BOUNCES BACK— Steinmark Still Cheerful Following Leg Amputation

Houston (AP) — Freddie Joe Steinmark braced himself with his new crutches and then used his lone foot to test the Astro-dome's synthetic football turf Tuesday.

The junior safety for the University of Texas No. 1 football team then outlined an ambitious schedule for the next several weeks and told newsmen he was so cheerful.

It was the first news conference since the Dec. 12 surgery in which cancer forced amputation of the left leg just six days after Steinmark had played in the nationally televised collegiate showdown between Texas and Arkansas.

"The reason I'm in such a cheerful mood now is because of the way everyone has treated me," he said. "The letters and everything else that has been sent me have made it easier for me to bounce back. I'm more cheerful right now than I've been under other circumstances."

Words may have been difficult at times but 20-year-old from Denver, Colo., had a smile for every question asked.

Before the questions, however, Steinmark's smile broke into laughter a couple of times as the Astro-dome's $2 million scoreboard went through a spectacular normally reserved for Houston home runs and victories.

The smile grew broader as the scoreboard then spelled out: "The Astro-dome Salutes Freddie Steinmark — the number one team's number one guy."

The trip to the domed structure had been preceded by a Monday visit to the Houston zoo. Both expeditions were designed as part of his therapy to familiarize himself with his crutches.

His busy days ahead begin with his leaving the university's

M.D. Anderson Hospital & Tumor Institute on Wednesday to spend the holidays with his family in a nearby apartment.

"I plan to be in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day and greet my team as they come on the field to play Notre Dame," he said. "I plan, if at all possible, to be in Honolulu for the Hula Bowl on Jan. 10 and then in Austin for the team banquet Jan. 12. I hope to have my new leg fitted and in use by the 12th."

But he has plans well beyond Jan. 12.

"I'm planning to resume my studies with the start of the second semester, the first week in February and won't have any trouble catching up," he said. "Then I hope later to go to law school."

Steinmark entered the university as a chemical engineering major but his law school objective caused him to switch later to liberal arts.

Children Sing For Joy; Dad Said 'Alive'

By The Associated Press
The four children of Maj. Donald Odell canceled their Christmas caroling Tuesday because of the cold. But then word came that their daddy might be alive — a prisoner of war in Vietnam.

"There was no stopping them," said Mrs. Odell at her home in Mt. Clements, Mich. "They're back in the cold, telling the neighbors their dad's all right, singing their hearts out up and down the block."

Odell was one of 131 prisoners whose names were made public Tuesday by two women leaders of an anti-war movement just back from North Vietnam.

The two women — Madeline Duckles of Berkeley, Calif., and Cora Weiss of New York — said they brought back letters from the prisoners to their families and mailed them Sunday.

In Washington the Pentagon said it was the first time four of the men had been named as POWs. Officials would not say which four.

Gwen Schweitzer of Lemoore, Calif., wept with relief when she received a card from her husband, Cmdr. Robert Schweitzer, 37, a Navy flyer who was shot down over North Vietnam two years ago.

International Greeting
Mrs. Schweitzer, who had not known her husband was alive, said the card wished her and her two small sons a "merry Christmas and happy New Year and happy Tet," adding: "May God bless and keep you and grant us all peace in the new year." Tet is the Vietnamese new year.

MADELINE DUCKLES

New Parole Procedure Is Revealed

Washington (AP) — The Justice Department announced Tuesday a major overhaul of the federal parole system that will make it much more difficult for convicts to gain outright release from prison.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said the reorganization would make parole "more meaningful and effective both to the public and the ex-convict."

Drawn up by a special committee headed by George J. Reed, chairman of the U.S. Parole Board, the plan converts the parole board into an appellate body that will hear appeals from recommendations of parole hearing examiners.

Statistics Emphasized

Reed said the changes call for heavy reliance on statistical information and increased use of halfway houses and out-patient psychological counseling rather than outright release.

The rules cover 20,506 persons now in federal correctional institutions as well as 10,300 persons out on parole or mandatory release.

Under the present system, the eight parole board members — five in the adult division and three in the youth division — hear parole applications individually and then the individual board member votes with the full division on the appeal.

"Complete Transcript"

Reed said the reorganization envisages the board acting as a deliberative body that is "able to rely on a complete transcript of the hearing, a full background investigation of the applicant and other careful and administrative procedures."

"Only in this way," he said, "can the Board of Parole fulfill its function to give careful consideration to each parole applicant and to tailor its decisions to the rehabilitative potential of the prisoner and the need of society to be protected from potentially dangerous persons under federal jurisdiction."

The new system will rely on hearing examiners to conduct initial hearings on all applications, and the examiner will make a written recommendation which will be reviewed by the board.

Noting that the board has frequently acted in the past on mere telephone interviews with whoever conducted the initial hearing, Reed said this system is being scrapped and verbatim transcripts will be required on all parole hearings.

Hughes Ordered To Pay Damages Of $137.6 Million

New York (AP) — Howard Hughes, the multimillionaire recluse, was ordered Tuesday to pay $137,611,436 in damages to Trans World Airlines, which he once controlled.

The ruling is subject to appeal.

U.S. Dist. Judge Charles M. Metzner upheld the damages award made Sept. 21, 1963, by former U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, who acted as special master in the case.

The present management of the airline sued Hughes in 1961, saying he had mismanaged TWA when he owned a controlling interest. Suits, countersuits and appeals followed.

Liquor Sales Okayed

Bellevue (AP) — The Bellevue City Council has decided to allow the sale of liquor on Sundays between the hours of 6 p.m. Sundays and 1 a.m. on Mondays. The ruling is to become effective Jan. 25, 1970.

Newark, N.J. (AP) — A federal judge fined eight major oil companies a total of $550,000 Tuesday for conspiring to regulate prices and sales to private brand distributors.

The companies and their fines were Atlantic Refining Co., $100,000; Gulf Oil Corp., $100,000; Cities Service Oil Co., $100,000; Cities Service Co., $50,000; American Oil Co., $50,000; Humble Oil & Refining, $50,000; Sinclair Refining Co., $50,000, and Mobile Oil Corp., $50,000.

The fines were imposed by U.S. Dist. Judge Reynier J. Wortendyke after the oil companies entered pleas of no defense to the charges.

The firms were charged in a 1965 indictment with conspiring to monopolize interstate trade of gasoline products in the New Jersey-Pennsylvania area.

The indictment charted that the conspiracy began in 1955.

The firms fined $100,000 each pleaded no defense to two counts. Cities Service Corp. also pleaded no defense to two counts, and the others pleaded no defense to one count each.

The indictment alleged that the firms, which bring crude oil into the area through the same pipelines, had virtually forced non-name brand distributors to sell the oil at a certain price.

The federal government charged that this was done by fixing the price and maintaining stringent control over the amount of oil sold to small distributors.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
